News in brief

Israel's security not up to U.S.

NEW YORK (AP)—President Ford says the United States cannot guarantee Israel's security at this time. "We have to judge what is in our national interest above any and all other considerations," Ford said in an interview published Sunday in Time magazine.

He said some steps toward peace in the Middle East must be made before any American assurance of Israeli national security is forthcoming.

"We have often made commitments that we consider Israel a necessary state in the Middle East, both as to integrity of territory and its existence," Ford said.

"I wouldn't rule out a guarantee under some circumstances, but there has to be, in my judgment, some real progress there before that step is taken," he said.

The magazine quoted the President as warning that the hazards of the Middle Eastern tensions increase "every day that we don't get some action for further progress in the settlement of some of those disputes."

Soviet launching has observers wondering about joint space shot

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some American space observers who have been studying the Dec. 27 launching of a Soviet Salyut 4 space station think the Soviet Union might try to upstage the United States during next July's U.S.-Russian manned space mission by having a second crew of cosmonauts in orbit at the same time. Observers say high altitude of the station will give it a long life and the possibility of being inhabited by several different crews.

CIA investigation gets underway

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Rockefeller Commission is beginning its investigation into alleged CIA domestic spying amidst uncertainty as to what course the probe will take. The eight-member panel, headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, holds its first meeting today behind closed doors with CIA Director William E. Colby scheduled to appear. Colby is expected to brief the commission on the results of his own inquiry into the agency's alleged domestic surveillance activities.

Grocery prices outgrow benefits

WASHINGTON (AP)—Retail grocery costs continue to rise faster than benefits allowed poor families under the government's food stamp program. New figures from the Agriculture Department show a typical family can purchase a monthly maximum of $150 worth of food stamps, but that it costs $157.20 a month to feed that family. Meanwhile, the department still has under consideration a proposal by President Ford which would boost food-stamp costs to needy families beginning March 1.

Reform law termed toothless tiger

WASHINGTON (AP)—Proponents of stricter election campaign laws say the new election reform law, pushed with great ballyhoo as an answer to Watergate, is a toothless tiger because Congress and President Ford have failed to appoint members of the law's enforcement commission. Reformers say that names surfacing as possible appointees smack more of cronyism than cleanup.

Disaster warnings on FM radio

WASHINGTON (AP)—Warnings of nuclear attack, hurricanes, tornadoes and other disasters will be sent out by the federal government on an FM radio frequency. The White House Office of Telecommunications Policy says the warnings will be issued through the National Weather Service, broadcasting 24 hours daily over VHF-FM radio channels 162.40 and 162.55 megahertz.

Expect Coleman appointment

NEW YORK (AP)—William Thaddeus Coleman Jr., a black Philadelphia lawyer and former NAACP official, is expected to be appointed secretary of Transportation today by President Ford, according to Time magazine.

The magazine said Coleman, 54, a Republican, would be the second black person to hold cabinet rank. The first was Robert Weaver, secretary of Housing and Urban Development from 1966 to 1968.

A cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School in 1945, Coleman was chosen by Justice Felix Frankfurter as the first black law clerk in the history of the Supreme Court.

Coleman was once president of the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund. He helped draft the brief that led to the landmark 1954 decision that outlawed school segregation.

McCarthy in presidential race

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, declaring the Democratic Party has begun to "hedge and compromise" on the issues, has announced he will run for president in 1976 as an independent. About 400 well-wishers gathered at a theater here Sunday night to hear the former Minnesota senator announce his candidacy. McCarthy's announcement came just one day after another former senator, Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, announced he will seek the Democratic presidential nomination next year.

Second quake strikes California

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—The second earthquake within 24 hours struck Southern California before dawn today, causing minor damage and prompting numerous phone calls to emergency services.

A police spokesman in Long Beach said his switchboard received about 200 calls. Dishes were broken at homes in nearby Lakewood, he said.

The earthquake alarm at the California Institute of Technology Seismological Laboratory here was triggered by the temblor at 3:22 a.m. and registered 3.8 on the Richter scale.

A Caltech spokesman said the quake was centered in the northeastern section of Long Beach, in southern Los Angeles County.

At 1:22 p.m. Sunday, a moderate quake of about 4.7 on the Richter scale was reported offshore from Southern California.

Nixon pictured as 'beaten man'

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP)—His former White House press secretary has pictured Richard M. Nixon as "a beaten man," incarcerated in his seaside villa.

In his first lengthy, on-the-record interview since Nixon resigned last August, Ronald L. Zeigler told the Los Angeles Times he is "fed up with Richard Nixon taking it in the ear." Zeigler accused some members of Congress and of President Ford's staff of excessive vindictiveness, even to the point of not forwarding mail.

Economic preview tonight

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford requested the national radio and television networks today for time at 9 p.m. EST to disclose his economic and energy program to the American people, a White House spokesman said.

Ford will "tell the American people what is required of all of us to make these programs work," the spokesman said.

The 20-minute, prime-time address will cover the major elements of the proposals Ford will present Congress in his State of the Union address Wednesday afternoon, White House Deputy Press Secretary John Hushen said.

Hushen and other White House officials would not elaborate on the President's programs.

But other administration officials say Ford will request:

—A rebate of roughly 10 per cent of the income taxes paid by individuals for 1974 to inject roughly $15 billion into the economy.

—A reduction in 1975 taxes to be implemented through reduced withholding.

More snow coming

Storms death toll climbs to 51

By The Associated Press
Severe storms raged through the Midwest and Southeast over the weekend, killing at least 51 persons. Rain and snow were expected to continue disrupting widespread parts of the nation today.

The Midwest blizzard—described by a National Weather Service spokesman in Minneapolis as the worst in 35 years—whipped winds to 90 miles per hour and left at least 50 persons dead between Friday night and today. Another person died in a Florida tornado.

"The storm was as large as any hurricane," the Weather Service spokesman said. It downed power lines, stranded motorists and disrupted air traffic. Michigan officials estimated damage at $1 million in that state alone.

By today, storm related deaths had climbed to 11 in Nebraska, where 16 inches of snow fell, eight dead in Iowa, 12 in Minnesota, seven in North Dakota and two in Michigan, eight dead in South Dakota and one each in Illinois and Wisconsin.

Six members of a family from Summit, S.D., were found dead in their home Sunday night. They apparently died of asphyxiation after sewer gas permeated the home when a sewer exhaust became clogged with ice and snow, authorities said.

Frigid arctic blasts continued over the upper Midwest, keeping most of the area below zero today, but skies were generally clear.

Winds averaging nearly 60 miles per hour whipped through the central Rockies. Rain, freezing rain and snow slammed the Pacific Northwest. Travelers advisories for winds and high wind warnings were posted for Southern California mountains and deserts, and for Colorado and Wyoming.

Rain continued over much of the middle and lower Atlantic region, with Sumter, S.C., reporting an inch of rain.

Jackson preaches into gun barrel

CHICAGO (AP)—"I could see the pistol in clear view, but I kept right on preaching," says the Rev. Jesse Jackson about an apparent attempt on his life.

"I didn't stop at all because if one becomes preoccupied with dodging death, one cannot affirm life," the civil rights leader said Sunday when asked about an incident when a man aimed a loaded revolver at him at Saturday's meeting of Operation People United to Save Humanity in Chicago.

Officials arrested George S. Jefferson, 30, a parolee from the Kansas State Penitentiary, after he was subdued by two off-duty policemen before he could fire a shot from a .38 caliber revolver.

Jefferson was being held at Cook County Jail on a charge of unlawful use of a weapon. His bond was set Sunday at $25,000.

Jackson was reached by telephone Sunday in Washington, where he plans to lead a march on Wednesday to commemorate the birth of slain civil rights leader the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

He recalled, "I was saying that fear has split the black community—fear of intimidation, jail and death. A man in the audience started shouting, trying to disrupt the service. Then I saw the pistol."

Although Jackson said he could not hear what Jefferson, who is black, shouted at the PUSH meeting, a Chicago policeman later said it was "something like his mission was to kill anyone helping black people."

Jackson said the next point in his sermon was "that when the black community is splintered, we cannot address the real issues because we spend so much time fighting and hating each other."

Officials said Jefferson, who has served sentences for aggravated battery, rape and assault since 1968, was released in 1972 from a prison in Lansing, Kan., after serving 15 months for a parole violation.

Jackson said he hadn't seen Jefferson before the incident but added, "Some of the PUSH members said they recognized him from previous meetings. I don't know what the guy's connections were, but I don't necessarily buy the crazy-man theory of assassination."

Jackson said there had been previous threats and attempts on his life.

Tense drama as patrol car threatens truce

GRESHAM, Wis. (AP)—A tense truce in the 13 day occupation of a northwoods religious estate was threatened Sunday, but maintained when armed Indians were assured a State Highway Patrol car had been driven into the besieged area by mistake.

Indians who had seized the Alexian Brothers' former novitiate near here Jan. 1 and have occupied it since told National Guard officers the patrol car was cruising within view of the building in violation of a cease fire in effect since Jan. 6.

Col. Hugh M. Simonson, commanding guardsman ringing the estate, visited the mansion and reported the cease fire was restored at 12:45 p.m. CST, about two hours after it had been broken off.

Gunfire exchanges had broken out between the Menominee Warrior Society and law officers the previous weekend before the cease fire was arranged last Monday. The National Guard replaced area law officers for security duties the next day.

No shooting was reported Sunday.

An estimated 45 members of the society have occupied the 64-room mansion since early New Year's Day, demanding that it be converted to a health center for the estimated 5,000 member Menominee nation.

The Alexians, a Chicago-based Roman Catholic order, had used the facility as a novitiate until 1968. The order has said it is willing to lease the building indefinitely for $750,000.

Mike Sturdevant, a leader of the demonstrators, contacted a Guard outpost over a military telephone link and said the patrol car was in violation of the cease fire agreement.

Simonson visited the novitiate and assured Sturdevant the car had been driven into the area by mistake and without his knowledge. He later directed that "no vehicles of any kind" were to drive within sight of the mansion without his approval.

The incident followed a Saturday night news conference, the first direct meeting between demonstrators and news media representatives since the takeover.

Baby cereal recalled

PITTSBURGH (AP)—H.J. Heinz Co. has recalled all boxes of its instant dry baby cereal after small metal fragments were found in two boxes.

The company said in its announcement over the weekend that the recall was voluntary and being taken because it could not ensure that other boxes might not contain similar fragments, found to be pieces of aluminum.

Products being recalled include Instant Rice Cereal, Instant Barley Cereal, Instant Oatmeal Cereal, Instant Mixed Cereal and Instant High Protein Cereal.

payroll tax on low incomes and establishing tax credits. But it left the way open for other proposals as well. Ford is reported considering a 10 per cent rebate on 1974 income taxes. The Democrats said the revenue loss should be recouped as much as possible "by closing the loopholes that now enable large corporations and wealthy individuals to pay little or no taxes at all." But it recommended no specific tax reforms.

—Lower Interest Rates. The task force called on the Federal Reserve to step up the growth of the money supply, saying it had been held to 2 per cent during much of 1974, when 4 to 5 per cent was needed.

The task force also called for allocation of credit toward such areas as housing, small business, food production, power generation, state and local government and productive capital investment.

If these actions had not produced results by July 1, the statement continued, Congress should consider steeply rising taxes on excessive rates of interest, such as 9 per cent and more.

—Jobs. The task force said the need for public service jobs now exceeds the 750,000 estimated last month. More such jobs should be provided, it said, and the flow of federal funds for approved public works such as water pollution abatement, flood control, highway, mass transit and others should be speeded.

—Housing. A range of possibilities for stimulating housing were offered, such as allowing savings institutions to pay higher interest, subsidizing interest on low and medium price housing, incentives for rehabilitation of existing buildings and short-term help for homeowners falling behind in payments because of unemployment or falling income.

—Energy Conservation. The task force said legislative committees should consider and recommend one or more possible actions, including mandatory allocation of petroleum and other energy sources; higher gasoline taxes; rationing of gasoline and fuel oil; higher taxes on pleasure craft and big automobiles; restricting the sale of gasoline on certain days, such as week-ends, easy-term loans for home insulation; review of utility rate structures that encourage heavy use of energy.

The statement said a gasoline tax increase would have to be studied carefully to prevent treating too harshly persons whose employment depends on use of automobiles. Rebates to such persons or dedication of the yield to a program of developing alternate fuel sources should be considered, it said.

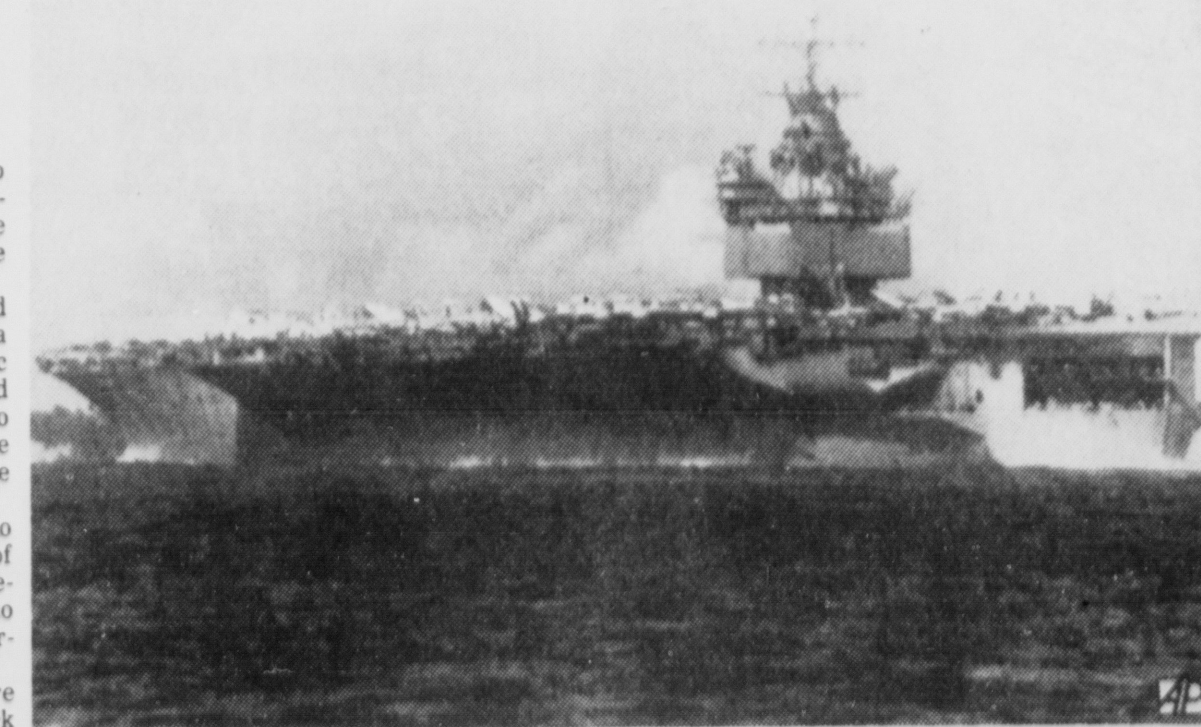

—Wages and Prices. Calling the present Council on Wage and Price stability "a toothless tiger," the task force recommended "an independent agency with subpoena power, the resources to hold extensive hearings, the authority to delay price increases up to 90 days, and in extreme cases the authority to impose controls more permanently on a selective basis." The selection, it said, should "be aimed at those industries where near-monopoly and administered prices render the forces of true competition inoperable."

—Needy. The task force urged Congress to block "the apparent intention of the administration to increase the price of food stamps to low income Americans" and to step up help to needy aged, blind and disabled.

In addition to the measures targeted for very early attention, the task force urged that Congress get to work promptly on developing a national health plan, encouraging the search for new sources of energy on a crash basis like those that led to development of atomic energy and the man-on-the-moon program; antitrust law strengthening; consumer protection, increased food production; aid to specific industries suffering disproportionately and helping for the aging.

To complete the organizational work for the new Congress, the Democratic caucus returns to work today to consider, among other things, a proposal to create a special committee to investigate the Central Intelligence Agency.

Three congressional committees already have announced inquiries into allegations that the covert agency violated its charter by engaging in domestic spying. A special commission headed by Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller is making an investigation.

Voice of the people

Last year, President Ford designated Aug. 26 as "Women's Equality Day" and urged ratification of the controversial "Equal Rights Amendment." Opponents of the Amendment are concerned about women being drafted for combat whenever men are; about enormous legal changes affecting marriage and divorce; and about loss of privacy when "sex discrimination" is eliminated in rest rooms, prisons, and most other institutions.

As a Congressman, President Ford got key Republican support for, and voted for, the "Equal Rights Amendment" in 1970, but ERA died in the Senate. In 1972, when the proposed Amendment came up for passage again, Ford told lobbyists for radical women's groups that there was too much opposition in his District and he didn't dare to vote for it, but promised to get other Republican votes for them and to "arrange to be absent when the vote was taken." Thus Ford neither represented the beliefs of his constituents nor supported the conservative position, but worked behind the scenes for something he did not dare to support in public.

In Fort Dix, renovations are underway as the Army prepares to house male and female soldiers in the same barracks. According to Army spokesman Lt. Col. Robert Dunn, "the move now in the Army is to remove every distinction between men and women that we possibly can, and it's just more economical to house all the people in the same barracks."

Senator Sam Ervin summarized a basic defect of the Equal Rights Amendment as follows: "The common law and statutory law of the various States recognize the reality that many women are homemakers and mothers, and by reason of the duties imposed upon them in these capacities, are largely precluded from pursuing gainful occupations or making any provision for their financial security during their declining years. To enable women to do these things and thereby make the existence and development of the race possible, these State laws impose upon husbands the primary responsibility to provide homes and livelihoods for their wives and children, and make them criminally responsible to society and civilly responsible to their wives if they fail to perform this primary responsibility."

"Moreover, these State laws secure to wives dower and other rights in the property left by their husbands, in the event their husbands predecease them, in order that they may have some means of support in their declining years. If the equal rights amendment should be interpreted by the Supreme Court to forbid any legal distinctions between men and women, it would nullify all existing and all future laws of this kind."

Sincerely,
Jacob Wilsey

Deaths from overdoses of methadone, the man-made narcotic introduced to wean addicts from heroin, for the first time have exceeded deaths from heroin, reports Security World magazine.

According to Dr. Dominick DiMaio, acting chief medical examiner in New York City, while the total number of drug-related deaths there dropped for the first time in a decade, there were 181 deaths directly attributable to methadone last year and 98 deaths due directly to heroin.

Only 10 of those who died of methadone poisoning, however, were enrolled in methadone clinics. According to Dr. Robert Newman, head of New York City's methadone program, stringent new federal regulations limiting the length of time an addict can be given methadone in a clinic have driven many of them back into the streets for their methadone, increasing the likelihood of overdose.

REFLECTIONS— A freshman legislator called us Friday morning and said he wondered if we would like to know what was going on in the Illinois House.

We knew the body was in the throes of electing a speaker but it was nice to hear from Calvin Schuneman, R-Prophetstown, in his third day in the House.

As is well-publicized, the Democrats hold 101 seats in the lower assembly and the GOPs hung on to 76 in last November's elections.

Schuneman informed the House had just finished the 30th roll call in three days and on the last one Clyde Choate, D-Anna, front-runner for speaker got 60 votes.

The new legislator noted the rest of the votes were scattered over seven other candidates.

He said the GOP position is the Democrats have a clear majority and it is up to them to elect a speaker of the House.

"We Republicans have just been sitting around watching what has been going on," Schuneman said, "because our position is it's the Democrat's business to elect the speaker."

The Prophetstown legislator noted the forces of Gov. Walker appear to have from 12 to 14 votes.

He reported 45 of Choate's votes came from Daley-controlled members and 15 of them from downstate.

Asked if there was an observable change in support for any candidates for the speakership or any sign of coalition among the minority contenders, Schuneman said there did not seem to be any moves by any of the forces, "They all seem to just be hanging on."

He declared it is difficult to predict whether Choate will get the post even after the three days of voting.

"I can say one thing," the freshman House member said, "It's awe-inspiring to see the power of Mayor Daley and the Chicago Democratic Machine in the legislature."

When you read this the speaker battle will be over.

Schuneman's last comments started us thinking about the ill-fated attempt to do away with the archaic system of cumulative voting.

Illinois is the only state in the Union with this form of electing members to the lower body of the state assembly.

The system permits each voter to cast three votes for one candidate for the House of Representatives.

The objective of this system was to assure that at least one member of each party is elected from each district.

Since Illinois is the only state which has this strange practice it seems to have become a "sacred cow."

Knowledgeable observers of state government believe the "secret" reason for hanging on to the cumulative voting practice is to assure the repeated re-election of House members who might lose out in straight one-man one-vote elections.

The elimination of cumulative voting would reduce House membership from 177 to 118 and is one of the real stumbling blocks to reform.

No one in office looks kindly to any proposal which threatens his tenure in public office.

Yet, it is the citizens who pay for government and who either suffer or benefit from the caliber and action of public officials.

It is estimated reducing the size of the House to 118 members would save taxpayers from $2 to $3 million a session.

In November six Democrats took advantage of cumulative voting trying to get elected to traditional Republican seats as "independents." Two of them succeeded, giving Democrats all seats in two Chicago districts.

The ridiculousness of cumulative voting was demonstrated in the 37th District last November when Richard Mautino, D-Spring Valley, polled more votes than either of the two Republicans running. Yet, the district has almost two Republicans for each Democrat.

Instances like these clearly show the practice does not achieve either its objective or its goal.

The elimination of cumulative voting for House members would save taxpayers millions of dollars, would bring state government closer to people because the 118 districts would be smaller than the 59 present ones.

Furthermore, there are Republicans who are more liberal than average Democrats and Democrats who are more conservative than average Republicans, so party labels are not as important in providing fair representation for all areas of the state.

Urban, suburban and rural oriented district representatives are apt to reflect the general opinions of the district from which they come, regardless of party affiliation.

What is going on in the House now regarding the election of a speaker is a struggle among Mayor Daley, Gov. Walker and other splintered Democrats, and, when the decision is made, somebody is going to compromise with someone else.

We are not suggesting elimination of the cumulative practice will do away with all such power struggles in the House, which mean very little to the people governed but very much to power brokers in each political party.

We are contending the elimination of cumulative voting practice will not deprive areas of the state nor political parties from fair representation to the House.

It takes only a look at the present make-up of the House, politically, to show the present practice does not work.

Illinois should give up cumulative voting and join the other 49 states in this elective procedure.

Things Dixon Talked About

10 YEARS AGO

Specific plans for the first Dixon Petunia Festival will be unveiled at a meeting of the festival committee to be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Dixon Elks Lodge.

The Ogle County Board of Supervisors was informed during the afternoon session Tuesday that changes in precincts in four townships should be made.

A volunteer orientation program at the Dixon State School will be conducted Feb. 6 from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. in the academic school auditorium. Primarily designed for high school and college students in the area, individuals and adults are also invited.

50 YEARS AGO

Plans are under way for the transfer to the State Hospital here of about 550 patients from other hospitals, to occupy the five new buildings just completed and equipped.

The regular meeting of the Dixon Kiwanis Club will be held at the guild rooms of St. Luke's Church tomorrow noon.

The regular meeting of the Dixon Lodge No. 779, B.P.O. Elks, will be held this evening at 8 o'clock.

"All It Takes Is a Ssssteady Arm!"

"We make old transformers run like new to make your electric dollar go farther."

"Before the electricity we generate gets to you, it goes through transformers. Thousands of volts go in one end and come out the other as a neat little stream of energy you can use to run your record player or heat your oven. Commonwealth Edison has thousands of these transformers in the field, working round the clock. Some have been out there for over 30 years and have gotten into pretty rough shape. My job is to get them working like new."

Jim Amos supervises the equipment reclamation program at Commonwealth Edison's Technical Center. This complex of machinery and men operates on one basic principle: don't buy new equipment if you can make old equipment work like new. Some transformers just need a tune-up, but others need to be rebuilt from the ground up. It's a tough job. But when you consider that a new transformer could cost as much as $50,000, it's a job worth doing.

Catholics oppose papal philosophy

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 79 per cent of American Roman Catholics favor changes permitting priests to marry, and 83 per cent of them approve artificial contraception despite papal teachings against it.

These are among findings of a representative survey made by the National Opinion Research Center in Chicago under direction of a priest-sociologist, the Rev. Andrew Greeley.

The survey found that: —Almost a third of American Catholics would support ordination of women as priests, and more than four-fifths would vote for a qualified woman for president.

—Sixty-seven per cent think recent changes in the church are for the better, and only 19 per cent think they are for the worse, with the rest feeling the changes made no difference.

—More than four-fifths of the Catholic population approve of the English-language liturgy, and about two-thirds approve of guitar masses, lay clothes for nuns, progressive religious education and sex education in Catholic schools.

Summarizing the findings for the January-February issue of the Catholic periodical, the Critic, Father Greeley and three colleagues who assisted in the study, write: "Despite the pontification from both the left and the right that 'the people' are upset about changes in the church, we could find little evidence that any more than a minority are opposed to the 'new church.'"

However, a slight majority,

54 per cent, think there have been enough changes.

Most of the laity, 72 per cent of them, have a "great deal" or "some" sympathy for priests who have left the ministry, the report says, adding:

"Despite the argument frequently heard in high ecclesiastical circles that the laity would not accept a married clergy, 80 per cent of our respondents say they would be able to accept a change, and 79 per cent say they are in favor of such a change."

The study, made under a grant from the National Institutes of Education as a follow up to a similar study made 10 years ago, involved questionnaire responses from a nationally representative sample of about 1,000 Catholics.

Weekly mass attendance was down, over the 10-year span, from 71 to 50 per cent. Monthly confessions declined from 38 to 17 per cent. Those "never" or "practically never" going to confession increased from 18 to 38 per cent.

However, while some traditional forms of religious practice declined, the proportion receiving weekly communion doubled, rising from 13 to 26 per cent, and new forms of religious life, such as charismatic prayer meetings, home liturgies, marriage encounters and religious discussions "attained a surprising popularity."

USED CAMEL MARKET is held annually in Pushkar, India, where millions of Hindus flock to the biggest animal fair in the world. More than 100,000 camels, cows and horses are sold there each year.

Family TV viewing being sought in prime time

NEW YORK (AP)—In case you've been out of touch lately, there's a suggestion afoot that the first hour of nightly entertainment programming on the networks be suitable for viewing by the entire family. Yes, indeed.

CBS has proposed that the National Association of Broadcasters' TV code recommend such a first-hour policy and that when "special" programs with adult material appear at that time that warnings be issued.

NBC, like CBS, says it already is doing both in its programming, but hasn't called for a change in the association's code of standards.

Neither has ABC, which nonetheless this week said that when the new TV season starts next fall, the first hour of its nightly entertainment fare "will be devoted to programming suitable for general family audiences."

And, ABC says, when it thinks certain shows during this time period may contain material some may regard as unsuitable for young viewers, the shows will be preceded by audio-visual warnings.

ABC says it recently increased its use of such warnings and "will now also include them in on-air promotion and print advertising."

CBS' proposal, to be studied later this month by an NAB program standards committee, comes amid recent network jawboning by the Federal Communications Commission on ways to protect children from adult-oriented viewing during the early evening.

The NAB, whose standards code is followed by the three networks and more than 400 stations, says the code doesn't now recommend first-hour "family" network programming or advance warnings of adult TV fare.

"We have never been involved in it (advance warning proposals)," says a code spokesman here. "It's a very difficult area for the code to lay down specifics because every situation is different."

Regarding CBS' first-hour recommendation, he adds, "the code has always rather carefully avoided trying to spell out anything that specific because it leaves no creative freedom at all for the broadcaster."

Food for Americans

Soup - fast, easy and delicious

By AILEEN CLAIRE

Men like soup. For example, one says it is the one dish he makes well. And this comes from his childhood days of listening to radio shows like Pepper Young's Family when he could run into the kitchen and make himself some soup (i.e., open a can and heat it up) and get back for the next episode.

Times haven't changed that much as far as men, and those other folks like women and children, liking hot or cold soups anytime during the year is concerned. However, more cooks now like to take time to put together a homemade soup, even if it has some ready-made ingredients, than the aforementioned instant can-opener did.

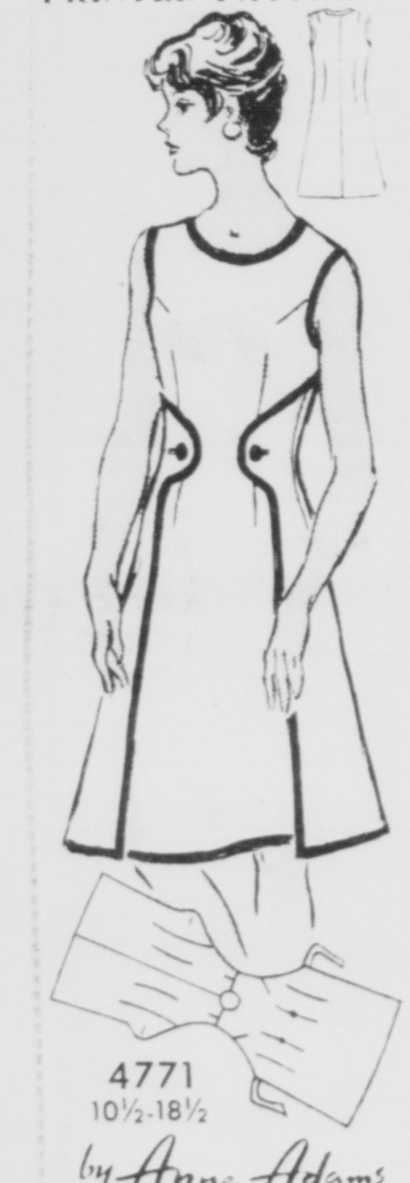

One such soup to serve before a meal or as a main course with a salad, homemade cornbread and fresh fruit dessert is an Italian Vegetable-Barley Soup. Don't hesitate to freeze this in single portions if some is left over. It will still be good... if not better than the first time around.

- ITALIAN VEGETABLE-BARLEY SOUP
- 2 (10-oz.) cans condensed beef bouillon
 - 3 1-3rd cups water
 - 3 cups red wine or bouillon
 - 1 (16-oz.) can tomatoes
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon basil
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1/2 cup regular barley
 - 1/4 cup onion, chopped
 - 1 garlic clove, minced
 - 1 cup julienne carrot strips
 - 1 medium-sized zucchini, thinly sliced
 - 1 (16-oz.) can kidney beans, drained
 - 1 tablespoon olive oil
 - 1/4 cup chopped fresh parsley

Zesty Italian vegetable-barley soup.

AAUW Book Review Group

The AAUW Book Review Group will meet at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Dixon Public Library when Miss Helen Miller, librarian, will display and discuss new books.

New officers preside at UMW Unit meeting Thursday

Mrs. William Wolf, new president of the First United Methodist Church, presided at Thursday's meeting in the church parlor when new officers were introduced by Dr. Robert W. Schumm, pastor of the church, and devotions were presented on "Viewpoints" by Mrs. Francis Jennings.

Special music was presented by Jill Jacobson and Judy Starns, who were accompanied by Peter Moore, and Mrs. Harold Huffman presented a pin and certificate to Mrs. Jennings from the UMW.

Mrs. Melvin Hartzel, the new vice president, introduced the afternoon's program, a film entitled "Something Besides Rice," depicting needs of the world, and refreshments were provided by Mrs. Ralph LeFevre, Mrs. Wayne Prince and Mrs. Dawson Womelord.

A collection was taken for the World Hunger Relief Program, and reports were given by Mrs. Francis Wattenick. Mrs. Wolf announced that needs of Martha Hall would be discussed at the next unit meeting March 6, and she also announced a Fellowship Day salad luncheon for May 2.

Mrs. Huffman announced District Days of Renewal, "Enjoy the Journey," for March 3 in Fenton; March 5, La Salle, and March 5 and March 15 in Franklin Grove. An evening dinner-meeting will also be held in Waterman March 11 and reservations are to be made with Mrs. Ivan Swegle.

The World Day of Prayer observance was announced for March 7 at St. Anne's Catholic Church, and a film on Jonah is shown.

Program booklets were prepared by Miss Lorraine Missman, Mrs. Marie Peterson, Mrs. Helen Miller and Mrs. Phyllis Huffman and the next Mission Team meeting was announced for 7:30 p.m. Feb. 3 in the church parlor.

Food experts recommend cheese and rice meals

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Each morning the housewife faces the question of what foods to buy as prices steadily go higher. If she works, too, she needs foods that can be cooked quickly and with the least amount of preparation. Cheese is one good bet.

Dorothy Holland says, "Cheese is in better supply this year than in the last two years. Its flavor makes it an ideal selection for budget meals, meals quickly prepared and meals where everything put before one can be eaten. There are no leftovers."

As a vice president of Kraft Foods and an expert on consumer relations, she is highly qualified to discuss family food problems.

"Cheese," she continues, "can be used as a main dish. It also can be used as a snack. It is excellent for the working woman because it can be prepared so quickly. Two ounces of cheese make a normal main dish serving. Therefore, one pound will provide enough for eight 2-ounce portions."

Rice is another food in excellent supply for 1975. It can be used in a surprising number of ways.

"Long grain converted rice, one of several forms of rice, is definitely a convenience food. It cooks quickly and requires no preliminary washing. One cup of raw converted rice makes 3 1/2 to 4 cups of cooked rice," says Marian Tripp, a widely experienced home economist in consumer needs and nutritional education.

"For dinner, I would serve converted rice, a green vegetable and three ounces of steak - not 3 1/2 or more. That would make a flavorful and nutritionally balanced meal."

"Most nutritionists are stressing that Americans eat too much meat - especially beef. They suggest a 3-ounce serving, or even less. To get people to make the change will be a long hard pull, of course. But there is now a national effort being made to teach the public the basic facts of nutrition, especially the children. It has been stated by researchers that people will listen to food educators only just before the first baby is born, or when they grow older and want to know what foods might help them lose the aches and pains of old age. However, the inflationary prices of food, plus the increasing number of unemployed, may cause people to stop, look and listen before they put down their shrinking dollars for certain foods."

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY - I am writing to ask where I can obtain a size 18 1/2 man's shirt pattern. I have checked all the pattern books and asked around but cannot find one. I can get a size 17 1/2. Is there a special pattern company where I could get the size I need? - EVELYN

DEAR EVELYN - If you have gone through all the pattern books without success I suggest that you take an old shirt of the correct size and carefully rip it apart. Use the pieces as a guide for cutting your own pattern. Mark each piece as you go along and make notes as to type of seams and stitching. - POLLY

FAMILY LIB By JOANNE and LEW KOCH

A wet blanket for Christmas

(Note: Today's column is written by Joanne.)

The children were nestled all snug in their beds. And Lew shouted down to ask when I was coming upstairs. He had been bustling around the house all evening. I knew he had a present waiting for me - a sweater, maybe, a new robe, or a parka.

I walked into the bedroom. Lew whipped back the comforter. And there, stretched across our king-sized bed, was a tie-dyed satin sheet with bursts of red exploding all over in large, gory blotches. It was the kind of thing you'd expect to see if you had taken a heavy dose of LSD.

But coming up from mopping the kitchen and cold sober like this, I could only gasp and say, "What is it?"

"Satin sheets," said Lew, looking a bit crestfallen. "And they're peppy."

(Besides the bursts of red, there were smaller bursts of purple, green and yellow.)

"I remembered that you wanted something livelier than white."

(I had in mind powder blue, actually.)

"When I saw all these colors, I thought this would be perfect."

Maybe I should keep them. Lew had intended this to be a luxurious, romantic present. But I knew this psychedelic setting wouldn't trigger any romantic fantasies. One night on these and instead of thinking about the joy of sex, I would be dreaming of Bela Lugosi biting my neck. Then there was the realization that this massive amount of material would have to be washed by hand and ironed. That was enough to put a wet blanket on any fantasy.

"You don't like them!" Lew was getting angrier by the second. He had obviously spent a considerable amount of time and money on this gift.

"OK, let's return them," he said, ripping the sheets off the bed in a fury, muttering to himself. "She says she wants colored sheets, so I spent a whole day looking for sheets and what thanks do I get."

Satin sheets just didn't go with our other acquisitions, such as the storm door with the broken lock which still had summer screens in on Christmas Eve. Satin sheets didn't coordinate with worn lounge chairs that had little bits of foam rubber stuffing creeping out around the edges.

Satin sheets went with champagne and filet mignon tastes, not with ground beef plus soybean additive.

Satin sheets weren't for a family which tended to romp in bed on Sunday morning; Josh flopping down like a stiff corpse and laughing hysterically as he hit the mattress, Rachel trying for a half-gainer and Lisa quietly finishing the last of her coffecake.

Maybe by next Christmas, I would throw practicality to the winds, and segue into a wild Andy Warhol phase.

But for now, a fringed satin pillow slip from Atlantic City was more our speed.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: When I read your advice regarding the five-year-old boy whose mother put ribbons on his blonde curls and gave him a tea set for Christmas, I decided that maybe you could help me, too.

I am a girl, 52 years of age. My problems started when my father knitted me a pair of argyle socks for my fifth birthday. Those socks did something to my life, Ann. From then on I wanted a crew cut. I refused to wear silk underwear like the other girls in my gym class and insisted on green jockey shorts. Now I hate dresses and I go everywhere in jeans and boots.

Lately I've been thinking of changing my name from Esther to Ralph. But deep in my heart I want to be straight. Is it too late for me? - Gay In Connecticut

Dear Gay: My spies have located you. "In Connecticut" and would you believe they traced your letter to New Haven?

Look, kids, Yale is a very tough school. If you want to stay there you're going to have to spend more of your time hitting the books. Please save your stamps (or write to your folks) and let me alone.

Dear Ann Landers: A couple was having hard sledding. They were rubbing each other the wrong way. The bickering and quarreling were ruining their relationship. Finally the man said to his wife, "I'm sorry, dear, for the way I've been treating you. Perhaps you should have married a better man."

She replied, "I did. The expected pattern is to progress, to improve year after year, but too often we go backwards. The persons we were in our younger years are often better than the people we are now. We allow defeats and disappointments to dull the luster of our lives. We let habit blind us to the good qualities of those who are closest to us."

"Love is something you must work at. It cannot be sustained unless it is cultivated and nourished. One way to renew the original thrill of young love is to take time to count the things for which we should be grateful."

"You should have married a better man," said the husband. "I did," replied the wife. "That better man can still be found, if only we take the time and trouble to revive him." - Rabbi Samuel M. Silver, Temple Sinai, Stamford, Conn.

Dear Rabbi Silver: Your words are pure gold. Thank you for a beautiful message. I'm sure many readers saw themselves in this column today.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a secretary who conducts herself like a lady. For the one hundredth time, I have heard, "Thanks, Hon." or "Sweetheart, please make five copies of that last letter."

This is supposed to be a business office. I'd like to tell my boss to cut out the affectionate and cutesy names, but unfortunately I don't have another job waiting. Besides, I have several years of seniority and one doesn't just walk out these days.

If you will print this letter in the paper I will put it on the bulletin board - where the clod can see it. - A Woman With A Pronounceable Name

Dear Woman: Here's your letter, but I notice you didn't ask for an answer, so I won't give one. While I'm sure some secretaries in my reading audience feel as you do, I'll bet there are a greater number who attach little or no importance to those affectionate names which are more a habit than anything else.

New Grapefruit Diet 'Pill' Gives Fast Weight Loss

BEVERLY HILLS (Special) - An amazing new improved version of the popular grapefruit diet has recently been developed featuring the use of a "grapefruit pill" that enables overweight people to easily and quickly become slim, trim and attractive "while still eating, almost as much as you want."

The new chewable (candy-like) grapefruit pill puts an end to the inconvenient mess, fuss and high cost of eating half a grapefruit at every meal. Happy testimonials from people all across the country claim "you save time and money while achieving more effective weight loss results with this handy new diet plan."

Lose a Pound a Day
Those who follow the simple grapefruit pill diet report an average loss of up to a pound a day and even more without strenuous exercise or starvation.

Fortified with vitamin E and C, the new whole grapefruit extract pill and foods as prescribed by the diet will, through natural action, act to help your body fluids, allowing you to keep your weight down and figure in firm control.

Eat All You Want
Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, lobster, chicken, fish, some sauces and gravies, bacon and eggs, and still lose weight.

Diet Now Available
To get a copy of this highly successful diet and grapefruit pills, send $5.00 for 10 day supply (or $8.00 for 20 day supply or $10.00 for 30 day supply) to GRAPEFRUIT PILL DIET, Dept. 50, Box 1418, Beverly Hills, Ca. 90213. Rubber bridge? be generous

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "A good rubber bridge player should learn to be generous. He doesn't mind letting an opponent win a trick now and then as long as the lost trick does not cost his contract."

Jim: "Today's declarer was a little stingy. He had bid four but wanted to make six. He discarded a diamond on dummy's ace of clubs and led a heart to his ace; then he played the king of hearts. West showed out and the contract was now in jeopardy."

Oswald: "The way the cards lay there just was no way to bring it home. South tried to get a diamond discard on dummy's fourth spade but East ruffed the third spade lead and spoiled that plan."

Jim: "South had overlooked a generous safety play. East had played the eight of hearts on the first heart lead and South should have stuck in his nine. This would have cost him a trick if hearts had broken 2-2 but as it was would have insured his contract since East would never be able to lead a diamond through South's king."

Oswald: "If East had played the queen or jack of hearts on the first heart lead, South would go back to dummy with a spade; take a finesse against the last heart honor and wind up with an overtrick." 13 (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

For Tuesday, Jan. 14, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You can rely on others to do as you direct but first you'll have to build a fire under them. A pep talk will do the trick.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you feel your work merits greater compensation, this is a good time to call this to the attention of your superiors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Much can be accomplished today if you arrange your schedule in its order of importance. Attack one problem at a time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Others are willing to share things of value. Don't look gift horses in the mouth. Be grateful for what's offered.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Agreements today will be long-lasting and benefit both parties equally, especially if one of the opposite sex is involved.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't be hesitant to mark-up the price tag for your skills or talents. The buyer will still get a bargain.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're luckier than most today in situations that have elements of chance as a partial ingredient. Follow your hunches.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Check your sources again to see if something you've been wanting for the house can now be gotten on better terms.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Several people you haven't heard from recently will be getting in touch shortly. An old relationship will be revived.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Something is developing in a rather mysterious and unique manner that will prove to be of profit to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Work closely today with the two people most able to assist with your present hopes. Don't wait for them to call you.

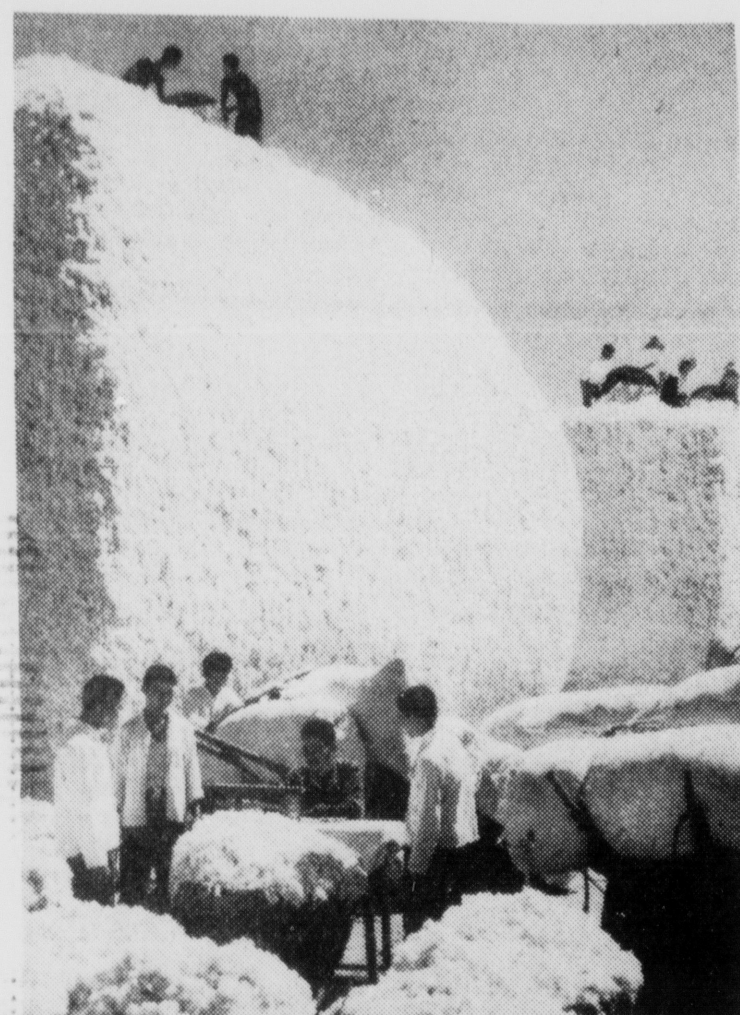

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be sure to keep strictly to yourself anything told you now by a confidant who insists upon secrecy.

Hamlich more than a name

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "There's a performer in me, underneath it all," admits composer Marvin Hamlisch, whose alter egos have been in dispute ever since he won three Academy awards.

Until April 2, 1974, Marvin Hamlisch was only a name on the movie credits. Then whammo.

The brash young man with glasses and well-combed hair mounted the Music Center stage three times to claim Oscars for composing the score and title song of "The Way We Were" and adapting Scott Joplin's music for the score of "The Sting."

He was an Instant Celebrity. Mike Douglas asked him to co-host a week of shows. He appeared with Johnny Carson, Dinah Shore, "Hollywood Squares."

People asked for his autograph. ("I was so thrilled, I streaked for them," he jests.) He was here to appear on the Mac Davis Show and to record the theme for the new "Hotel Baltimore" series.

"The Oscars provided 48 hours of glee — ecstatic, orgasmic glee," he recalled. "But that was it. Then I had to decide what I wanted to do with my life, and that wasn't easy."

"The Oscars put a lot of weight on me."

"I could have taken the easy way out and gone on scoring movies. But now I'm awfully crazy. I want a Tony, an Emmy and a Grammy, and I won't be satisfied until I get them."

He might even do it. Hamlisch also bought the rights to the John Osborne play, "The Entertainer," which starred Laurence Olivier on stage and film. Hamlisch is coproducing it as an NBC television special starring Jack Lemmon.

NEW ROLLS-ROYCE Silver Shadow sedans and Corniche coachbuilt convertibles ready for delivery to customers.

Rolls-Royce sales advance to record high in U.S.

While the economy retreated in 1974, the U.S. sale of new Rolls-Royce motor cars advanced to a record high—more than 700 Silver Shadow sedans and Corniche coachbuilt convertibles were delivered to American customers last year.

The United States market is served by nearly 50 Authorized Dealers in 29 different states, including Hawaii.

The success of Rolls-Royce at this difficult time is explained by a number of facts. One is that Rolls-Royce is a good investment. The seemingly-high purchase price, when related to the actual value makes the true cost surprisingly low.

A multiplicity of luxury features, which would be extra on other cars, even if they were available, are all included as standard equipment on the Rolls-Royce.

A Rolls-Royce never goes out of style, never wears out, depreciates less than other cars, and actually appreciates in value if kept long enough and properly serviced.

More and more people are realizing, indeed, that Rolls-

Royce is the unexpected economy car.

Less than 3,000 Rolls-Royce motor cars are made for the entire world every year, and Dealers find that the supply is just never equal to the demand.

Rolls-Royce has been part of the American scene since November, 1906, when Charles Rolls brought his own personal Rolls-Royce to America, won a variety of races, and quickly rang up three sales.

Smothers brothers return tonight on variety series

NEW YORK (AP) — The Smothers Brothers, fearless censor-baiters during their three turbulent years on CBS, are back with us again in a weekly variety series, starting tonight on NBC-TV. It's good to have them back, even though I've always felt their reputations as controversial performers were bogus. They are campus humorists writ large and no more.

But in their CBS years (they were axed in April 1969 in a flap over censorship) their shows always had laughs, quality music arrangements, good writing, fine new performers and a spirit of devilry.

Their opening show on NBC tonight isn't quite up to their old standards, but it still is way ahead of most network variety shows, which these days seem only to feature the sound of music and snoring.

Tom Smothers, now an elderly 38, starts the show by noting the brothers' departure from CBS almost six years ago — and omitting mention of their 1970 summer show on ABC, which flopped.

"We went off the air at about the same time that (Richard) Nixon came in," he says and, with a gentle jibe at the NBC censor, hastily adds, "This is not a political statement or a social comment."

He observes that during the late 1960s, the nation was divided, with hawks against doves and conservatives against liberals, a time when people were "a them or a those."

"And Dickie and I happened to be one of those and we didn't know then we were going to do that good. Anyway, there are getting theirs now."

He concedes that some may feel he and his 36-year-old brother "got the (NBC) show by copping out, by making concessions.... Nothing could be closer to the truth."

And subsequently the show goes into a series of skits, one of which features rock star Alice Cooper, appearing in civies and without his familiar makeup, singing "Unfinished Sweet."

Cooper winds up in a dream sequence, in makeup, coming out of a big mouth, surrounded by dancing molar and waving a giant toothbrush. Even with all this, the number seems to lack bite.

George Burns, Johnny Carson and Redd Foxx show up for a lame skit devoted to honoring only gag punchlines. Foxx reappears for a dull, tasteless bit about the 25th anniversary of a mixed marriage.

The bright moments come only when the brothers clown their way through a song — a "Dueling Banjos" caper at the finale is nifty — or when the other "name" stars are absent from the other skits.

The show is very uneven, but it has a potential which may live up to the glory of the old days, provided the Smothers: —Resume their custom of introducing young new performers.

—Are allowed reasonable freedom in booking guests and material.

—Don't scream at the censor too often. Once a week should suffice.

Finds Lady
Luck but forgets
her name

DETROIT (AP) — Herb Drasler of Waukegan, Ill., is looking for Lady Luck. But the lady isn't just in Drasler's imagination. He says she's about 5-foot-5, blonde and lives in Detroit. When she appeared at his side recently at two Las Vegas craps tables, Drasler says his luck magically changed. But, alas, he forgot to ask her name. "Ever since I got back to Waukegan I can't stop thinking about her," said Drasler, 33, a bachelor who makes windows when not on one of his bi-yearly gambling jaunts. He pleaded his case Sunday in a telephone call to a Detroit newspaper. Drasler said he was losing until the lady stood next to him, and then his luck changed. When she left, his luck took a turn for the worse, and he moved to another table. She popped up again there, and sure enough, he started winning again.

New Congress to debate Watergate story

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the first issues scheduled for debate when the new Congress convenes next week is whether the American people finally have the full story of Watergate and whether the scandal has created support for tighter control over the FBI and CIA.

Thus Watergate, which dominated events on Capitol Hill for the past two years, remains a powerful influence.

Congressional sources expect these questions to be raised early in the new session: — Will the final report of the special Watergate prosecutor's office give a complete account of the scandal that drove Richard M. Nixon from the presidency? — Will that report lay out why some people were prosecuted and others were not, including why Leon Jaworski agreed to allow former Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge in connection with the ITT investigation? — Will anyone review all the tapes from the Nixon White House and determine if portions should be made public? — Does anyone know the full story of the involvement in Watergate of the FBI and the CIA? — And will the public ever know the details of the domestic surveillance activities of the FBI and CIA, not only during the Nixon presidency but also under his predecessors?

Once again, attention will focus on the House Judiciary Committee, scene of the hearings on the impeachment of Nixon.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., wants his committee to rule on the Justice Department budget, which includes the FBI. Justice is one of several major government departments that now deal solely with the appropriations committees of Congress for approval of their budgets.

A major exception is the Defense Department, which goes through a two-stage procedure of getting authorization for expenditures and then appropriation of the money.

"Rodino wants an ongoing type of oversight," a committee source said when asked why the chairman was pushing to require the Justice Department to submit its budget requests to the Judiciary Committee.

The Watergate prosecutor's office and the FBI also are going to come under close scrutiny from the Rodino committee.

A subcommittee headed by Rep. William L. Hungate, D-Mo., plans to hold hearings late in January on the final report currently being drafted by special prosecutor Henry S. Ruth and his staff.

Ruth opposes trying to make the final report a complete history of Watergate that would include information never used in court, such as activities of Nixon associates who never were charged with a crime.

Jaworski was quoted earlier this week as saying he doubted a case could be made against Nixon intimate Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo for his role in handling campaign contributions.

Rebozo has denied any wrongdoing and said he was "delighted that Jaworski came to the only conclusion any fair-minded person would come to based on the facts."

Ruth had no comment. But sources in the prosecutor's office had suggested long ago that it was wrong to speculate that Rebozo would be indicted.

Some members of Congress would like Ruth to lay out in the final report all he learned about Rebozo.

But it is believed that Rodino agrees with Ruth that such a procedure would violate Rebozo's rights.

The prosecutor's final report does appear certain to revive the simmering dissatisfaction among Senate liberals over the handling of the Kleindienst-ITT case.

"How did Kleindienst help?" asked one Senate source who noted that Jaworski had said Kleindienst's cooperation had been a consideration in allowing the former attorney general to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge.

Kleindienst was charged with failing to testify fully before the Senate Judiciary Committee when he was asked about the handling of the ITT antitrust settlement. He received a one-month suspended sentence.

In contrast, former California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke was charged with perjury. He was convicted and received an 18-month suspended sentence.

So far, no other charges have been brought in the ITT investigation.

NEWSPAPER
ADVERTISING GETS ACTION

The question of whether Nixon or the government controls the tapes is before the courts for decision.

If the decision is that the government owns them, Ruth would oppose being given the task of listening to them and culling out any Watergate tidbits that ought to be made public.

But James F. Neal, chief prosecutor at the cover-up trial, where 28 presidential tapes were played publicly for the first time, believes someone should go through the tapes if they end up in the hands of the government.

Interviewed at his Nashville, Tenn., law office, Neal also said he knew nothing more about possible CIA involvement in the Watergate break-in than came out at the cover-up trial.

The defendants made an issue of the CIA backgrounds of the Watergate burglars, but the jury rejected their contention that the spy agency's involvement may have been greater than anyone knew.

But new allegations about CIA activities that may have violated restrictions against the agency conducting domestic operations has led to new congressional investigations in the post-Watergate mood of the new Congress. But no one knows yet how much of these probes will ever become public.

Reduced soybean production blamed for projected higher costs of oils, fats

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department expert said today that world supplies of fats and oils, essential as ingredients and for the preparation of many foods, will be down about two per cent in 1975 from last year and that consumers will continue to see high prices for those items.

Reduced soybean production in the United States in 1974 is the main factor in the tighter fats and oils situation according to Alan E. Holz, an analyst in the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

"Tighter supplies will mean that vegetable oil prices are likely to stay near current high levels and that consumers may need to tighten their belts a notch, even if supplies are augmented by a U.S. stocks drawdown," Holz said.

The 1974 U.S. soybean crop was down 21 per cent from the record harvest in 1973, partly because many farmers switched more land into corn and other crops but also because of poor weather during much of the growing season.

Soybean oil is used extensively in the manufacture of margarine, cooking oil, salad oil and shortening. Raw soybean oil prices have soared the past year, reaching a record one-month average of 43 cents a pound last August.

Those have declined to around 35 cents per pound at Decatur, Ill., the main market, but still have averaged about double what they were 18 months or so ago.

Retail prices of margarine have doubled in some cases. One-pound packages recently have sold in the Washington, D.C., area for 79 cents a pound, only 10 cents less than butter made from milk fat. The price spread between margarine and butter historically has been much greater.

Holz said in his report, included in a weekly issue of "Foreign Agriculture" published by USDA, that world production of all fats and oils — which includes oil from other crops and animal fats such as tallow and lard — is expected to total 44.4 million tons this year, compared with 45.4 million in 1974.

"Virtually all of the decline reflects reduced output of U.S. soybean oil — down by about 1.5 million tons — although smaller sunflowerseed oil outputs in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union also contributed," Holz said.

Total U.S. fats and oil production for human food is estimated at about 10.6 million tons this year, a decline of 1.7 million tons from the record output of 1973, Holz said. In foreign countries, production is expected to be 33.8 million tons, an increase of 700,000 tons despite reduced oilseed crops in some areas.

Holz said that, in addition to world production of 44.4 million tons this year, there is a potential for adding 640,000 tons of oil from reserve U.S. stocks, meaning that total world availability of fats and oils in 1975 may be about 45.1 million tons. Although the use of U.S. reserves would boost 1975 world supplies slightly above 1974, the increase would amount only to seven-tenths of one per cent.

Holz said that increase "is significantly below the normal two per cent growth in world population, however, so that per capita world oil availability in 1975 will decline slightly."

Government experts think the long decline in American egg eating is expected to continue at least until producers step up production and retail prices come down.

According to Agriculture Department records, the average American ate 334 eggs in 1960 but had reduced his consumption to 287 in 1974, the lowest consumption rate since the mid-1930s. No official projections have been made for 1975, but egg producers have trimmed output because of high costs and severe financial losses.

William E. Cathcart, a poultry specialist in the department's Economic Research Service, explains the decline of egg consumption this way in the current issue of "Farm Index" published by the agency:

"As every housewife knows, the cost of eggs has been rising along with most everything else. And, with the cost of living so high, many egg eaters are cutting down, although eggs are a fairly cheap protein source."

"Much of the decline in egg consumption has resulted from a change in eating habits. The cholesterol scare hasn't helped egg consumption either."

Deaths and Funerals

Hazelwonder was cited after the rear of a parked car owned by Wayne Smith, 29, Amboy. Hazelwonder told deputies he did not see the Smith auto.

Woman rescued after six day ordeal

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Barbara S. Wilson lay injured at the bottom of Wheeler Gorge for six days. Temperatures dipped to freezing and there was no food or water. She says that at one point a passerby refused to call for help.

"I have a strong desire to live and I guess I did by the grace of God," the 46-year-old divorcee told highway patrolmen Sunday after she had been lifted 500 feet to safety. The gorge is in a wilderness beside Los Padres National Forest.

A teen-ager had heard her screams and summoned rescuers.

She told officers that two days earlier she thought she was going to be rescued when a passerby worked his way partly down the gorge after hearing her calls for help.

"But the man said, in effect, that anyone who drove that road deserved anything he got and that he didn't want to get involved," highway patrolman Al Goldberg said the woman told him.

She said that hope began to fade after the man left, because she lived alone and no one knew her travel plans.

The woman told California Highway Patrol officers she was driving along twisting California 33 about 120 miles north of Los Angeles when she pulled to the side of the road for a rest.

She was heading north from Ventura, her home, toward Bakersfield.

She said her foot accidentally struck the accelerator pedal and the car bolted off the road and came to rest on its roof 150 feet down the steep face of the gorge. She said she crawled outside the car, not realizing how steep or deep the gorge was, and slipped down another 350 feet to the bottom.

She said the injury to her knee made it impossible to work her way back up the rugged gorge. The only comfort she had was a rubber floor mat from the car to sleep on.

Temperatures fell as low as 32 degrees during the period, officials said.

The teen-ager, Dean Herman, 15, said he was out with a group of friends hunting for targets to shoot at when he heard the woman's screams. One went for help while the others lowered themselves into the gorge.

Rescue workers took the woman to Ventura Community Memorial Hospital, where she was reported doing well after knee surgery. Doctors said there were no broken bones.

Catfish more dangerous dead than alive

CHICAGO (AP) — A catfish may be more dangerous dead than alive to the unwary fisherman, a Duke University physician warns.

The reason, he says, is that fishermen are not careful in handling their catch after the fish are dead. The anglers forget or don't know that they can still get a painful, toxic sting from the fins of the dead fish, he says.

The physician, Dr. Charles H. Scoggins, of the Duke University Medical Center in Durham, N.C., describes the dangers and after-effects of catfish stings in the Jan. 13 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"The potential of these fish for inflicting a very distressing sting to unwary humans is apparently poorly appreciated by physicians in this country," he wrote.

Scoggins, now on leave at the University of Colorado in Denver, said in a recent telephone interview that no one knows how often fishermen or others handling catfish are stung.

But he said it seems to happen "with a fair degree of frequency" and appears to be fairly common among fishermen.

There are about 1,000 species of catfish, most of them living in fresh water. They are the only known fresh-water fish known to have a toxic sting, Scoggins said.

Most toxic catfish stings occur while fishermen are handling the fish to remove them from hooks or to clean them, he said.

The catfish's stingers are located in the fin spines on its back and sides. When excited, the fish extends the spines to protect itself.

When the stinger penetrates the skin, the venom glands are exposed and toxic secretions enter the victim's flesh. "Surprisingly little" is known about the nature of the venom, the physician said.

Deaths have resulted from stings by Japanese salt-water catfish, but none is known to have occurred as a result of a sting from any American variety, Scoggins said.

The severity of the sting is related to the amount of venom

Redmond is likely man for House leadership post

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A deadlocked Illinois House resumes voting today for speaker with the current frontrunner predicting an early thaw in the frozen Democratic ranks.

Rep. William A. Redmond, D-Bensenville, was tallying about 70 of the 89 votes needed to be elected when voting was suspended for the weekend early Saturday.

The marathon election had gone three days and 64 ballots, making it at least the third longest in Illinois history.

Standing between Redmond and the powerful speakership was Rep. Clyde L. Choate, D-Anna, the early frontrunner. However, Choate's average of 60 votes per ballot abruptly dropped to about 20 when on the 39th ballot loyalists of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley abandoned Choate in favor of Redmond.

For the next 26 ballots, the lineup changed little.

"Generally speaking, for people in government, there comes a point when they figure they've got to get down to the business of running state government," Redmond said Sunday in a telephone interview.

"And when it comes to the point when it looks like the cause is gone, they get about the business. After all, they're professionals. I think it will come tomorrow," Redmond said.

Redmond, the DuPage County Democratic chairman, said he sees little likelihood that the Republicans, who have been voting solidly for their leader, Rep. James Washburn of Morris, would bolt the party and vote for a Democrat.

"The only crossover I can see is the Republicans crossing over to vote for me, on the same premise, that the die is cast," Redmond said. "But I have no reason to feel that will happen."

Choate, who spent the weekend with his family and hospitalized wife, indicated Sunday there was no change in his position. He also reaffirmed his disinterest in any other leadership position or committee chairmanship.

As a result of big victories in the November election, Democrats hold a 101-76 majority in the House.

The defection of Daley Democrats from Choate to Redmond came Friday after a Democratic caucus. Daley's floor leader, Rep. Gerald Shea, D-Riverside, announced to the caucus that he was going to vote for Redmond on the next ballot, and about 40 Daley followers picked up the cue.

At a news conference Saturday in Chicago, Daley predicted a victory for Redmond.

"On Monday, he (Redmond) will be the speaker," Daley said. Asked why he made the remark, Daley said: "I based that statement on optimism."

Redmond, who has represented his suburban Chicago district for 16 years, also has the apparent approval of the state's other leading Democrat, Gov. Daniel Walker.

Walker initially vowed to stay out of the race entirely but later his aides let it be known that Choate was unacceptable to the governor as speaker.

Rep. Gerald Bradley, D-Bloomington, said he had been told that he was the governor's first choice, but Walker has said that he finds a number of candidates acceptable.

Several legislators have complained that persons acting in Walker's name have threatened them with loss of patronage jobs if they continued to back Choate.

The Legislative Council reports that the longest speaker election in state history took place in 1913 when 76 ballots were needed. The second longest was in 1915 when it took 68 ballots.

Bill would give schools choice

SPRINGFIELD—Rep. R. E. Brinkmeier, D-Freeport, this week introduced legislation to permit school boards to choose whether they wish to observe Memorial Day and Veterans Day on dates designated as either state or federal holidays.

The five-term legislator, who for the past four years has served as Democratic co-spokesman on the House Elementary and Secondary Education Committee and is currently a member of the state School Problems Commission, said he believes school boards should have this flexibility in order to adapt school schedules to local situations and opinions.

Specifically, Rep. Brinkmeier's bill would allow school boards to "substitute the last Monday in May and the fourth Monday in October as legal school holidays in lieu of May 30 and Nov. 11, respectively."

These meetings and the early student dismissal were originally scheduled for this Wednesday, but were rescheduled due to a conflict with the high school semester final examinations.

U.S. energy supplies will be considerably boosted when natural gas, as well as oil, begins flowing south from Alaska's North Slope fields. Still to be decided, however, is the most effective means of getting the gas to market with least damage to the environment. Under consideration are two pipeline proposals. One calls for a short route, roughly paralleling the TAPS oil line now under construction, from Prudhoe Bay to Alaska's south coast, where the gas would be liquefied and transported to Pacific Coast ports by ship. An alternative route would cross Canada, forking into several pipelines that would serve California and East Coast areas.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C-649: Louise B., aged 39, is frantic.
"Dr. Crane," she moaned, "I have just learned that my husband has been having an affair with a 22-year-old secretary."
"Yet we have three wonderful children and he always seemed to be a devoted husband."
"So what ails men that they desert their wives and family?"
"And what does an outside siren have to offer that surpasses the usual wife's charms?"
"For I'm not more than the 10 pounds heavier than when I married, and you allow that much on your 'Tests for Wives.'"

"Besides, we are established in our community and are active in civic and Country Club affairs."
"So why do husbands still chase around with younger girls?"
"Tenure Indolence"
Many wives, after the wedding ceremony, seem to think they can coast thereafter, like the usual teacher on "tenure."
But the outside paramours know they already have a rival who has the inside track because of that wedding ring!
So the sirens don't "coast" or rely on "tenure" but are like the rookie ball players or football draft choices who work doubly hard to displace older, established members of the team!

Obviously, a fat stodgy wife makes it far easier for the siren to wean a husband away from his family.
But even a slender, beautiful wife like Louise, may occasionally fall into that "tenure" philosophy and thus rebuff her husband's attempt to revive his waning ardor.
For a straying husband usually loves his wife far more than he does his paramour.
He may be using the outside siren merely to bolster his sex ego, which may be deflated by his snoring, unenthusiastic wife in their boudoir.
For men have peculiar codes of conduct that most wives find difficult to understand.

Many husbands who feel their pride or honor has been destroyed, as by being wiped out in a stock market crash, may commit suicide, despite the fact they have a devoted, attractive wife and family.
In like manner, millions of formerly good husbands grow so panicky about the idea of premature impotence, that they go erotically berserk.
They may then lose all social perspective and start chasing around with a teen-age classmate of their own high school daughter.
Some such males don't even show enough tact to spare their wives and children from social humiliation, but even flaunt their faithlessness before the entire local community, their family included.

Remember, when a husband becomes terrified that he is platonic with his wife, he often tries to coax her into waxing more romantic and seductive in their boudoir.
Thus, he may urge her to buy diaphanous nighties and use perfume in an extreme case even participate in wife-swapping.
Any of these symptoms should alert you devoted wives to the approaching sexual terror that may drive your husband to outside sirens.
If you wives then fail to pick up your romantic cues but irritably rebuff his attempt to revive your earlier courtship boudoir activity, beware!

"Oh, for heaven's sake, Herbert! Roll over and act your age!" is the final straw that makes him decide to see if an outside paramour can restore his waning libido.
So send for my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate your ideas on arthritis. The whole medical profession seems to be at a loss on that one. Those of us who have passed our three score and 10 need help from somewhere. I'm 84-years young, working every day and enjoying it. Thus far I have refused all dope. Please express your opinion on aspirin. I refuse to use it. What I want is prevention.

DEAR READER — To be as active as you sound at 84 you must have done a lot of preventing already. Working and enjoying it is one of the best preventions of general aches and pains and more serious medical problems I know of. Most people who have lived long life spans have done the same as you have.

I wish I could tell you there was a cure for arthritis. The osteoarthritis which you have is an accompaniment of increasing age. Some have it worse than others. It is not a new disease. Even the ancient dinosaurs had it.

The degeneration of the bones is thought to be a sort of wear and tear response. That is why it often affects the weight-bearing joints, like the knees and hips.

If you are not having too much discomfort you might as well do without medicine. Aspirin for this type of arthritis is useful only to the extent that it relieves pain. It won't cure or change the progress of the arthritis.

You do need to maintain the full range of motion of your joints. That will help to keep you working and enjoying it for another 20 years. Try to move every joint in your body through a full range of motion several times each day. That means bending forward on your ankles to stretch your ankle tendon, straightening your knees as far as they will go, moving your thigh as far forward, backward and to the side as you can and methodically moving every joint in all directions as far as possible without straining yourself. Such exercises help prevent loss of motion later. Keeping active usually involves at least some of these movements and helps a great deal.

For mild osteoarthritis with no evidence of deformity, medicine to control discomfort, if needed, and general medical support is usually enough. For other forms of arthritis, such as rheumatoid arthritis, or more serious osteoarthritis an arthritis specialist, at least to evaluate the course of the disease, is a good idea.

It is also important to keep your weight down. Obesity merely adds to the wear and tear on weight-bearing joints. I would suspect that overweight is not one of your problems. It is interesting how seldom it is a problem in people over 80 years old. One of my doctor friends once observed to me after a trip to Florida that he seldom saw any old fat people, just old skinny ones. There ought to be some sort of a lesson in that observation.

People in the news

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for the Internal Revenue Service says former President Richard M. Nixon has paid back taxes for 1970 through 1972 but has not produced a sum he agreed to pay for 1969.

The IRS ruled in April that Nixon owed a total $432,787 — back taxes for the four years, interest for the 1970-72 years and a 5 per cent negligence penalty.

The figure included $148,081 for 1969, on which the statute of limitations had expired.

At the time, Nixon agreed to pay the whole sum without a contest. On Sunday, however, the IRS spokesman quoted IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander as saying the 1969 amount was yet to be paid.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington's Roman Catholic Archbishop William Baum told an Episcopal congregation in a sermon that Roman Catholic, Episcopal and other Christian faiths should strive for a common communion. Two of the worshippers were President and Mrs. Ford.

Archbishop Baum told the congregation that the denominations of Christianity "must stand together, work together and give common witness" to their beliefs.

The ecumenical service was held Sunday at St. John's Church across Lafayette Square from the White House. After the service the archbishop joined the Rev. John C. Harper, rector of the church, in bidding farewell to the Fords, who often worship at St. John's.

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul VI has called on all men to help bring the world real peace by seeking "the peace of conscience."

"This last part of the 20th century (has been) laden with the most upsetting experiences," he told about 1,000 people who gathered Sunday in rain outside the papal palace. The pontiff spoke from the window of his top floor study.

He urged mankind to come to terms with "the problem of the peace of conscience which can be tackled satisfactorily only by the courageous sincerity of remorse, the need for forgiveness and the hope of renewal."

MADRID (AP) — Spanish Premier Carlos Arias Navarro describes Gen. Francisco Franco's health as normal for a man of his age, and says the head of state displays "extraordinary mental lucidity" at cabinet meetings.

In a newspaper interview, Arias Navarro said Franco, who is 82, works at the meetings "with absolute normality."

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 1975. There are 352 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: In 1733, James Oglethorpe and some 130 English colonists arrived at Charleston, S.C., to settle in what is now the state of Georgia.

On this date — In 1419, the English captured the French city of Rouen.

In 1813, in the War of 1812, the British blockaded Chesapeake and Delaware Bays.

In 1915, an earthquake in central Italy killed 30,000 persons.

In 1935, the Saar voted to return to Germany after being administered by France under League of Nations supervision.

In 1953, the Soviet government accused nine doctors of plotting to kill Communist leaders. It later was said the charges were false.

In 1943, President Franklin Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill began a wartime conference in Casablanca, Morocco.

Ten years ago: President Johnson asked Congress to adopt new immigration legislation that would abolish quotas based on national origins.

Five years ago: Israeli planes bombed five targets inside Egypt, including an air force supply base 14 miles from Cairo.

One year ago: President Nixon flew back to Washington after an 18-day vacation in California.

Today's birthdays: Former chairman Earl Wheeler of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff is 67.

Thought for today: Striving to better, oft we mar what was well. — William Shakespeare, 1565-1616.

An opportunity for your son.

Newspaper route management teaches him to deal with people

A BOY with a newspaper route earns money that can help him get the things he wants. Even a college education.

More than that, he learns life's important lessons.

One of these is on how to deal with people.

Meeting his customers on his route, collecting and servicing, he gains this valuable business competence. It will help him throughout his life. Many former newspaperboys, notable successes among them, have told us as much.

Your newspaperboy also applies the arithmetic he learns in the classroom in a practical way by making change and handling bills... thus he becomes a better student. He learns, too, the value of promptness and of good manners.

In fact, you'll find that a newspaperboy manages to keep a step ahead of other boys in preparing for life... while building a bank account of his own.

Should your son be inclined to put himself that step ahead, have him get in touch with us. There may be a route available to him in your neighborhood. And along with it... the opportunity for the self-advancement you want him to have.

Franco and Steelers are champs

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — It was Mean Joe Greene, his wrecking machine — and an old man's dream.

Not that Franco Harris didn't have something to do with it. After all, a Super Bowl rushing record is not to be overlooked.

But in the long run — which Minnesota never had — it was Pittsburgh's ferocious front four that ultimately gave the Steelers and their 73-year-old owner, Art Rooney, their first National Football League championship after 42 years of frustration.

Greene, Dwight White, Ernie Holmes and L.C. Greenwood had about as much subtlety as a cement wall — and all of its effectiveness — when the Vikings tried to move the ball on the ground. Seventeen yards was all they got, which is to say they got nowhere.

If there was any deceptiveness in Super Bowl IX, it was only in the 16-6 final score. The six points the Vikings got weren't really of their own making. They were the result of a blocked punt. So, in effect, the Steelers' defense came up with a shutout.

"They've never played a better defensive game, never," Coach Chuck Noll said emphatically. "Our defense has been fantastic all season and I think it's appropriate that they should finish things off like they did."

They finished off the Vikings not only by turning their running game into oatmeal but by turning quarterback Fran Tarkenton back into a scrambler. He'd sort of lost that image in the last season or two. But in chilly, overcast, windswept Tulane Stadium, he nearly lost a few limbs.

Tarkenton spent virtually the entire afternoon trying to avoid being ground into hamburger by the half-ton meat grinder known as Greene and Co. Rarely did he have a chance to set up and scout around, looking for a receiver.

And when he did throw the ball, the Steelers were usually there to spike it back down his throat, tip it away or intercept it. Of his 27 passes, only 11 wound up in a teammate's hands, the end result being 102 of the Vikings' total 123 yards.

Unlike Tarkenton, Pittsburgh's Terry Bradshaw usually threw the ball not because he had to but because he wanted to. He completed nine of 14 attempts for 96 yards, four of them coming on a fourth-quarter touchdown pass to tight end Larry Brown that sealed the Vikings' doom.

Bradshaw, who had been called everything in the book from just plain dumb to a quarterback who choked when it counted, knew exactly what he had to do in this most important of pro football games.

He just handed the ball to Franco.

Harris, combining the finesse of a slashing halfback and the brute force of a bulldozer, pounded out 158 yards on 34 carries and scored the Steelers' first touchdown with a nine-yard sweep in the third period, a run made delightfully easy by Gerry Mullins' block that changed Minnesota's Wally Hilgenberg from a linebacker into a cartwheel.

"You've got to be kidding me," Harris said when informed of his record performance that broke the marks of 33 carries and 145 yards and turned Miami's Larry Csonka into a Super Bowl second-best. "I can't believe it. I never thought it could have been that high."

In the end, though, the ultimate accomplishment was by Greene and his cohorts, who played a super game when a lot of people had thought they'd peaked two weeks ago, limiting the Oakland Raiders to 29 yards rushing in the 24-13

American Conference championship victory.

"I sat and watched the people playing in the Super Bowl for eight years," said Greene, The Associated Press' Defensive Player of the Year. "Now we've won it and it's even greater than I thought it could be. I finally got the Super Bowl ring. I finally got it."

The Steelers' first points of the game came on a safety. A safety, more than an interception or a fumble recovery, is like a road sign reading: "Falling Rocks."

It means, simply, that a player on the other team is in danger of being buried under a landslide — one of bodies rather than boulders.

That's what happened to Tarkenton midway in the second quarter. Buried deep in his own territory (as the Vikings were most of the game), he mis-handled a pitchout to Dave Osborn, then was forced to pounce on the loose ball in the end zone.

The safety, the first in Super Bowl history, was the only scoring in the first half. It was strange, seeing a 2-0 score on a football scoreboard. It meant that Pittsburgh's offense, numerically, at least, had been equal to Minnesota's, which is to say ineffective.

But the strategy started working the moment they got their hands on the ball in the second half, when Bill Brown of the Vikings fumbled away the kickoff. Harris boomed through the left side for 24 yards, lost three on the next play, then careened in for the touchdown and a 9-0 lead.

It stood up until Matt Blair blocked a Bobby Walden punt early in the fourth quarter and Terry Brown scooped up the ball in the end zone for the Minnesota touchdown.

They got six offensive rebound baskets in the final 10 minutes.

"Actually, the score is misleading," Croegaert added. "We were only down four and had the ball with 1:10 to go, but we missed a shot and they got a fast-break layup. We missed again and then we just let it go."

"We didn't do a good job of blocking out people. You can't beat people if they are that big and you don't keep them off the offensive boards." Greg Koch led Amboy with 17 points, while Buck Fenwick got 14. Greg Esgar contributed 10.

Bob Herrman got 19 for the winners. Shabbona was 25 of 68 from the field and 18 of 22 at the charity stripe, while Amboy was 21 of 53 and 15 of 23, respectively. The Clippers, now 11-4 for the campaign, go to Harvard Friday.

Amboy loses 68-57

SHABBONA—The Shabbona Indians utilized superior height to outbreed the Amboy Clippers 43-27, here, Saturday night to win a 68-57 non-conference basketball decision. Shabbona collected 18 offensive rebounds during the game.

Gary Croegaert, Amboy head varsity coach, commented, "We shot 60 per cent the first half and outscored them in baskets 13-9, but they made 13 of 15 free throws to stay close. They are the biggest club we've faced all year, with four players over 6'4", but what really hurt us is their bench."

"They got 19 points from their subs, while we got two. But I feel the turning point in the game was the last part of the third quarter and fourth quarter, when they got a lot of offensive rebound baskets."

Hammelman collected 10, with five field goals in only eight shots.

Dukes fell behind 8-2 in the early going, as Hammelman hit a 15-footer and the Rockets converted three offensive rebounds of Fullmer misses. Dave Brotheridge got a tip-in, as did Tony Johnson, before Johnson popped in another offensive carom for a bucket.

Dixon came back as Breitza got a tip and a free throw. Moody converted two charity tosses and Ned Vail hit a free throw and banked in a pass from Zinnen for a basket. Rock Falls went the last 4:40 of the quarter with only a free throw by Dave Arvola.

Both teams dumped in 16 points in the second quarter, as the Dukes hit seven of 14 field goal tries. Breitza had three baskets, while Zinnen and Moody got two apiece for Dixon. Bohms had four to pace the Rockets in the quarter. The quartet consisted of a 15-footer, a left-handed hook, a 10-foot jump shot and a layup.

Fullmer took over in the third quarter and tallied on two 15-footers, a reverse layup and a tip-in, for half of Rock Falls' 16 points during the eight minutes. Moody had an offensive rebound and a reverse layup in the stanza, while Greg Weigle had two baskets.

The Dukes now host Princeton on Friday.

The Dixon Dukelets defense held Rock Falls to only six points in the third quarter as they picked up their seventh win of the season against three losses.

A strong team effort, led by the 31-point outburst by John Kemp, paved the way for the Dixon win. Jamie Anderson came through with 15 points and played a strong floor game for the Dukes. Tom Evett was close behind with 14 markers and 10 rebounds while Kemp led all rebounders with a dozen — a season high for the sophomores.

Mary Bollman paced Rock Falls with 21 points although a dozen of those were in the final quarter. It was only the second loss of the season for Rock Falls and lowered the team mark to 8-2.

Sport Notes

Sectional volleyball at Dixon

Dixon area residents will have a unique opportunity to observe the second level of Illinois High School Association Girls Volleyball series when Dixon High School hosts the sectional volleyball tournament, starting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in Lancaster gymnasium.

The first match will be Dixon High School, the Oregon District winner, versus the Plano District winner. The second match will be held on Thursday at 7:30 p.m., featuring the Princeton and Spring Valley District winners. The two winners of these two matches will play in the sectional championship on Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

The third level of IHSA girls' volleyball competition will be held at the Dixon Super-sectional on Jan. 21 at 7:30 p.m. This match will feature the sectional winners from Dixon and Loves Park. The winner will advance to the State meet on Jan. 24 and 25 at Eastern Illinois University.

Miss Ola Bundy, assistant executive secretary for the Illinois High School Association, has indicated that "The girls, who will be practicing hard and playing their best in representing their school in this first-ever IHSA Girls State Championship Volleyball Tournament, will also appreciate the attention and support of local fans."

Admission prices for the tournament are $1.50 for adults and $1 for students each night. No reserved seats will be designated, but gymnasium seating will be marked off for fans of each competing school.

The Franklin Center-Leaf River basketball game tentatively scheduled for Tuesday night at Leaf River has been postponed because of a scheduling conflict. The game, originally slated for Saturday night, was cancelled due to light failure.

Vock's scoring paces Polo win

WINNEBAGO — Don Vock continued his explosive scoring pace, here, Saturday night to lead the Polo Marcos to a 65-56 Mid-Northern basketball victory over the Winnebago Indians. Vock, who hit 27 points in a loss to Mt. Morris on Friday, bombed the nets for 11 baskets and 10 free throws to pace the Marcos with 32 points.

He also added 15 rebounds. Dave Galor notched 13 points and Mark Bratrud 10 for Polo. The Marcos are now 3-2 in conference action and 10-3 overall. Polo hosts Byron Friday in a Mid-Northern battle and then tangles with Dakota in a non-conference game.

Dukes fall to Rockets in lack-luster game

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor

It was just a simple mistake but it had the same effect as stepping on the tail of a rattlesnake. It was an error, conceived in optimism and thwarted by bad performance, that once again proved to be the key to another loss by the Dixon Dukes varsity basketball team.

The latest occasion was Saturday night at Lancaster Gymnasium, with the Rock Falls Rockets providing the opposition. All season long, the other teams have been playing a waiting game; knowing if they only stayed close to the Dukes something would happen to throw the game into the favor of the opposition. Saturday night was a perfect example.

Three-point Lead

Dixon had a 26-23 lead with 40 seconds to go in the first half, although the Dukes had converted only 10 of 25 field goal attempts. The Purple-and-White had the ball after a Rock Falls blunder. Did the Dukes pass the ball around for the final :40 of the half, waiting until three seconds or so remained to put up a shot which, if successful, would give Dixon a five-point spread at intermission?

The answer to the question is no. What the Dukes did was hustle the ball down-court, miss a shot, fail to get back on defense and give up a break-away layup by Kevin Bohms of Rock Falls, with :28 to go. The basket sliced the Dixon advantage to only one as the half expired.

One bad play at the end of the half, costing the Dukes a basket, but more importantly, giving the momentum to the Rockets. Rock Falls came back from intermission to outscore Dixon 16-13 in the third quarter and 13-9 in the final stanza to post a 54-48 victory. The game was non-conference and, to many viewers, was not much of a performance.

Cool 33 Per Cent

Dixon was a cool 18 of 54 from the field for 33 per cent. Rock Falls was slightly better, with 23 hoops in 53 shots for 43 per cent, but the Rockets missed at least 14 shots from close range. Toss in a 3-for-17 shooting performance by the Dukes in the fourth quarter, numerous turnovers by both teams and the result was anything but an inspired performance by either team.

As has been the custom throughout the season, Dixon was in contention for most of the game. The Dukes trailed only 41-39 at the end of the third quarter, but the Rockets sank four of the opening five baskets of the fourth stanza to increase the lead to eight (49-41).

Rick Brushaber canned a driving hook shot and then stole the ball and passed to Ron Fullmer for a layup. John Hammelman added a layup from under the basket on an out-of-bounds play, before Dixon's Dave Moody popped in a 10-foot jump shot with 4:57 to go. Bohms then set up a short-range field goal by Fullmer, and the Rockets had a 49-41 advantage with 4:35 remaining.

Like the Cubs

The Dukes refused to die, however, and had one surge left, much like the Chicago Cubs rally from five runs down in the bottom of the ninth inning only to leave the tying run stranded on third base.

Two Ned Vail free throws, a basket by Steve Breitza with an assist to Vail, and another Breitza bucket in a span of just over a minute, brought Dixon back to a 49-47 deficit with 2:04 left. A double-dribble call on Rock Falls and a missed short-range shot by the Rockets helped out.

Dave Moody departed with five fouls with 1:52 to go, and Brushaber made the personal pay off by sinking both shots of a bonus free throw situation. Dave Zinnen sliced the margin to three (51-48) with 1:39 left, but the Duke attack then sputtered and could not get another point.

Seven Shots

Seven shots were launched by Dixon and not one found the net. One did not even touch the rim. It was mediocrity at its best, since Rock Falls missed two consecutive first chances of bonus free throws and turned the ball over once on an offensive foul by Fullmer.

Fullmer atoned for his miscue with three of four charity chances in the final 10 seconds, with a pair zipping through the net after time expired, to up the final margin of victory to six digits.

The loss dropped the Dixon season record to 1-12. Moody had 15 points before fouling out, while Breitza got 14. Fullmer had 19 for the Rockets and Arvola.

Both teams dumped in 16 points in the second quarter, as the Dukes hit seven of 14 field goal tries. Breitza had three baskets, while Zinnen and Moody got two apiece for Dixon. Bohms had four to pace the Rockets in the quarter. The quartet consisted of a 15-footer, a left-handed hook, a 10-foot jump shot and a layup.

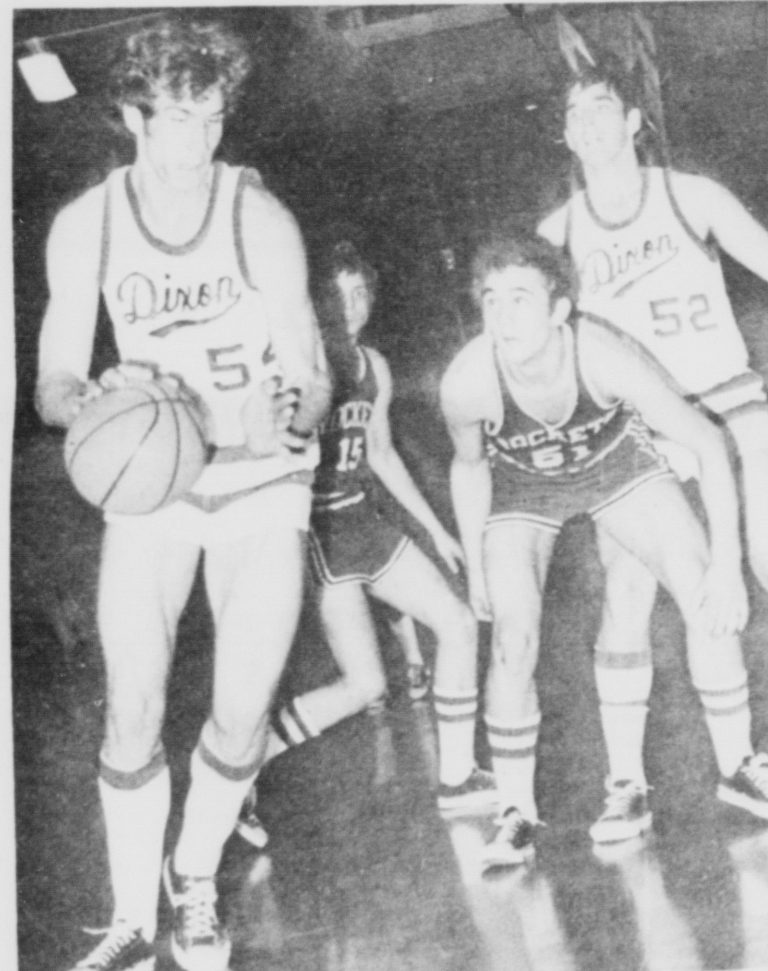

Fullmer took over in the third quarter and tallied on two 15-footers, a reverse layup and a tip-in, for half of Rock Falls' 16 points during the eight minutes. Moody had an offensive rebound and a reverse layup in the stanza, while Greg Weigle had two baskets.

Sauk drops fifth in succession

By EDWIN CALLAHAN
Telegraph Sports Writer

SAUK VALLEY—The Sauk Valley Redmen continued their frustrating slide as they lost 76-64 to the Rock Valley Trojans, here, Saturday night. It was Sauk's fifth straight loss.

The game, especially in the first half, was a defensive one. Both teams used an aggressive man-to-man defense that kept scoring down. Sauk was further hampered by cold shooting throughout the game, with Redmen missing shots that they normally make.

Despite the loss, Sauk played exceedingly well in the first half. They overcame an initial deficit and took a six-point lead. Unrelenting Trojan pressure in the second half, however, chewed up the collective calm of Sauk and lost them the game. Rock Valley out-played the Redmen both defensively and offensively throughout the second half to put the game safely away.

Rock Valley scored first on Steve Johnson's basket 45 seconds into the game. Sauk matched it 30 seconds later with a field goal from Tom Zinnani. The Trojans hit again right afterward on a shot from Mickey Miles. Center Roosevelt Watkins added another minute later to make the score 6-2. Sauk gained its next point on a free throw from John Windham, then added two more on a field goal from Mike Friedlein to put the score at 6-5. Myles came back with a bucket which was matched by two free throws from Windham.

The Trojans maintained their lead for the next eight minutes by just a few points. Neither team could break through the other's defense often and, when someone did, the ball consistently refused to go in. However, the Sauk began to slowly cut into Rock Valley's lead. With nine minutes left in the half, Terry Jenkins stole the ball from the Trojans and passed to Zinnani who drove for a lay-up, putting the score at 22-21. With 8:09 left Mike Rafferty, fouled by Steve Hook, sank one of his two free throws to make the score 23-21. Mike Stockwell tied the game for Sauk a few seconds later with a field goal. Neither side scored again for over a minute until Randy Paisley and Zinnani hit for one apiece to give Sauk a 27-23 lead.

This four-point lead was soon cut to one as Johnson scored a field goal, was fouled while doing so, and sank his free throw. A lay-up from Stockwell and a bucket from Tim Granow gave the Redmen a more comfortable 31-26 margin with four minutes left. Two free throws from Stockwell increased the lead to seven points. The Trojans spent the remaining time trying to reduce this lead, with little success. The half ended with the Redmen ahead 37-31.

Sauk kept their lead for the first six minutes of the second half, but under increasing Trojan pressure. Both sides scored, with the Redmen keeping the edge until Johnson sank a bucket to make it 43-40. A minute later, Dave Love added another one for Rock Valley. With 14:25 left in the game, Zinnani fouled Watkins, who sank one of his two charity tosses to tie the game at 43-43. Myles put the Trojans ahead again a few seconds later with his bucket. Rock Valley scored once more when Michael Molette hit from under the basket to put the score at 47-43. Sauk still remained unable to hit while Rock Valley added two more field goals to make it 51-43 with 10 minutes left in the game.

The Redmen finally broke their scoring drought with a bucket that Granow got because of a goal-tending charge against the Trojans. But in the next two minutes Rock Valley added three field goals to Friedlein's single free throw, putting the score at 55-46. Hook scored a basket to make it 55-48. Then Sauk received four points on two charges of goal tending against Molette within 12 seconds of each other to cut the margin to 55-52. This was the lowest that the Redmen could cut the Trojan's lead for the rest of the game. They traded baskets for the next four minutes, with Sauk never cutting into that three-point margin, yet always remaining in a position to threaten.

In the last four minutes of the game Rock Valley began to pull away as their defense closed down the Sauk offense almost completely. The Trojans hit the basket for ten points, while the Redmen could only gain four. Rock Valley finished with a 12-point lead over Sauk, 76-64.

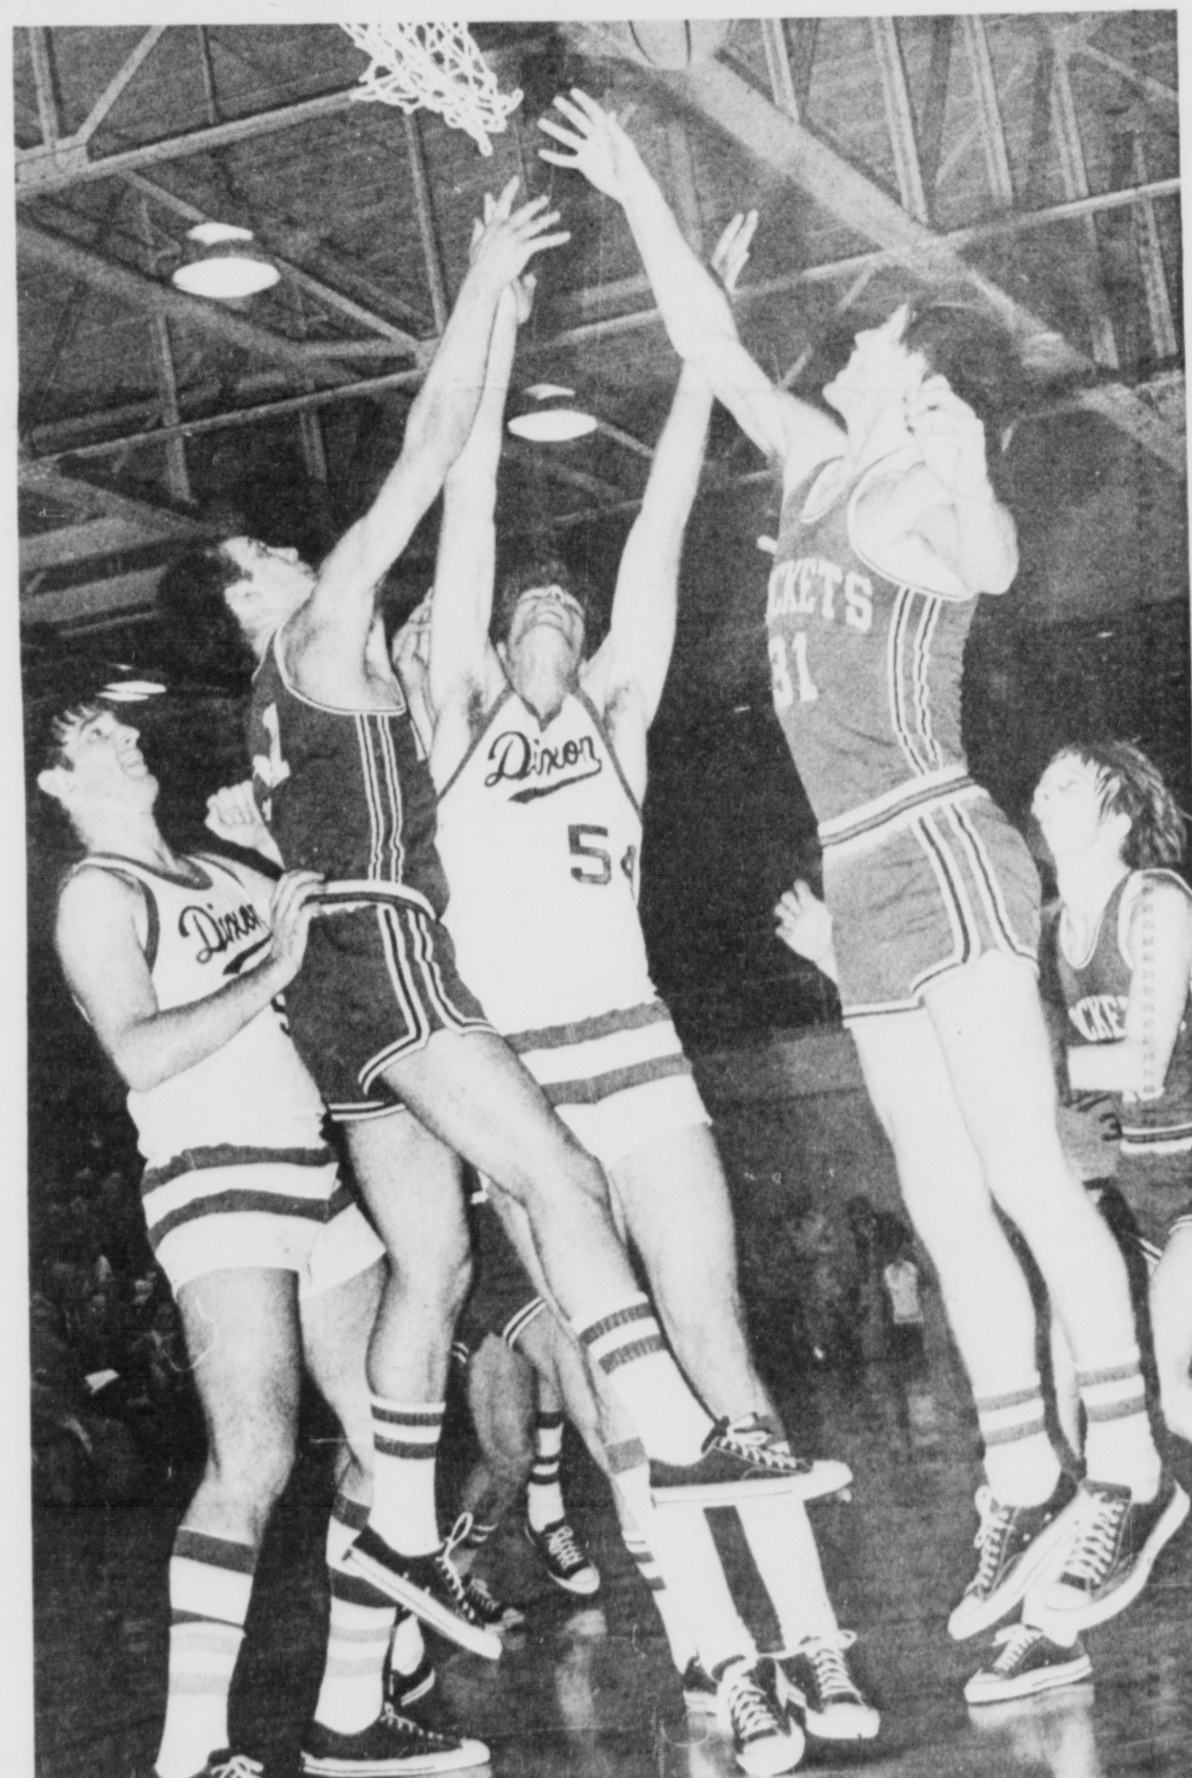

Sauk Coach Frank Palumbo was not too unhappy over his team's loss. "We had as good a first half as you would ever want played," he said. "They just got to us the second half. They got tougher and more aggressive. We didn't play calm or collected."

"Zinnani did a fine job," Palumbo went on, "and Jenkins did well. I am hopeful that this game ends the drought."

Zinnani was high scorer for the Redmen with 16 points. Hook and Windham shared second place with 12 apiece. Watkins led the Trojans with 21 points. Johnson was second with 17 points. Rafferty was third with 13 and Myles had 11.

Aces take fourth place

POLO—The Ashton Aces rolled up 63 points to take fourth place in the Polo Invitational Wrestling Tournament on Saturday. Ashton had one individual champion, as Curt Dusing upped his season record to 14-0 with three wins at 105.

Andy McCannon at 145 and Keith Miller at heavyweight grabbed seconds, while Orville Whitt (98) and Steve Heng (112) finished with thirds. Don Kennay (138) and Mike Schinzer (155) took sixths.

Dusing pinned Cunningham of Winnebago in 2:32 in the opening round and followed up with a default victory over Dillon of Erie and a pin of Riverdale's McCoy in 3:56 to claim his title at 105.

McCannon took his opening two matches by defeating Broshouis of Stockton 7-2 and Greg Horner of Amboy 14-0, before he lost to Nelson of Riverdale in the finals 7-1. Miller beat Hotze of Stockton 2-0 and pinned Hess of Polo in 1:12.

before he was pinned by Erie's Roos in 3:57.

Whitt got a 5-4 decision in the first round, lost to Rabe of Stockton 12-2 and triumphed over Erie's Chavez for his third-place showing. Heng beat Wampfler of Stockton 8-4, lost to Ed Collins of Polo 5-4, and defeated Piske of Mar-engo 6-4.

Kenney beat Stockton's Howley 2-0, lost a referee's decision after a 6-6 tie to Meeker of Byron, beat Poulter of Prophetstown 8-5, and lost to Erie's Antoch 6-0 for sixth. Schinzer lost his first match 6-1 to Zickert of Winnebago. In the wrestle backs, Schinzer pinned Lacy of Erie in 5:59 and lost to Reusch of Stockton 7-4.

Losers in the first round for Ashton were Rob Richardson 6-3 at 119, Tony Snyder 15-7 at 126, Gary Miller 8-0 at 132, Galen Eich 5-2 at 167, and Brian Dvorak 9-2 at 185. Riverdale claimed the team championship, with Polo second and Erie third.

Politics brings decline in morale, competence at U.N.

NEW YORK (AP) — Morale and competence at the United Nations are on the decline because of growing political pressure by member governments in hiring staff, says a study by a former U.S. delegate to the world organization.

The study, made by the Ralph Bunche Institute of the City University of New York, also claimed that various foreign ministers or delegates to the United Nations frequently press for the hiring of relatives or friends who want to live in New York.

"The adverse effects of political pressure tactics have become increasingly obvious and now pose a significant threat to the organization's well being," the study said.

The report said the Soviet Union has for some time been "the most frequent user of political pressure to have its nationals appointed and promoted" within the U.N. Secretariat. But now other nations are imitating the practice.

The United States also has engaged in the practice, the study said, by making "a strong effort about four or five times each year to place U.S. nationals in what the U.S. mission believes are key posts in the U.N."

The study was prepared by Maxwell Finger, the head of the institute, and a member of the U.S. mission to the United Nations from 1956 to 1971. Finger said research for the report took a year and included interviews with some 50 individuals.

The report said it was unfair to label all 3,300 professional level employees of the world organization as incompetent, but it declared: "The growth of political pressure has created a morale problem."

The study called on Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim and other top U.N. officials to put up more resistance against national influence in hiring, and suggested member nations dedicate themselves to a U.N. civil service emphasizing competence rather than geographical representation and patronage.

A spokesman for Waldheim said the secretary-general had not yet read the report. Other officials said it appeared to describe accurately how various governments seek to divide up United Nations posts — sometimes giving jobs to officials unwanted back home.

The institute named for Bunche, the late U.N. under-secretary-general, carries out research and conducts seminars on U.N. problems.

'A.M. America' fights durable 'Today' show

NEW YORK (AP) — Would everyone who likes that new ABC morning show called "A.M. America" please stand up? Thank you, sir. The rest of you, have patience. It could get better eventually.

But the two-hour show, as it began combat Jan. 6 with NBC's durable "Today" show, seemed a nervous, relentlessly cheery mess of brisk trivia and short, shallow interviews, all of it punctuated with music.

Co-anchored by newsmen Bill Beutel and actress Stephanie Edwards, it seemed dedicated to the proposition that the average viewer has an attention span of . . . of . . . say, what were we talking about? Oh, yes, "A.M. America." Well, on Tuesday, the show seemed slightly better. For one thing, it had no follow-up report on what to look for in the Burpee seed catalogue, a Monday feature.

And it appeared to inject a bit more news, compared to Monday when I had the impression someone whispered every now and then about sharp fighting, gold and the CIA and quickly withdrew.

The withdrawal wasn't too wise when you consider, say, Miss Edwards' interview that day with Dustin Hoffman and Cleavon Little regarding a new Broadway show in which the two men are involved.

Hoffman told her it was a pleasure to "see you, hear you, smell you and hopefully touch you." It went sideways from there.

An ABC reporter fared no better in a live "remote" talk with the keeper of an historic Maine lighthouse, and at one point was forced to desperately observe that "it's something that the motor turning the light keeps turning around."

Retiring Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., and former Atty. Gen. Elliott Richardson checked in briefly and forgettably as "guest" commentators. Then came John Lindsay, another guest commentator.

The suave former New York mayor and past and possibly future presidential contender didn't comment initially. Instead, with Beutel, he co-interviewed Roy Jenkins, Britain's Home Secretary.

Arab oil money benefits U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Much of what the Mideast earns from the oil it takes out of the ground is being put into the air, and U.S. aircraft manufacturers are benefitting more than those of other nations.

More than $700 million of commercial aircraft were sold to Mideast carriers by U.S. manufacturers in 1974, and there are indications that the transactions will continue for several years.

These sales are distinct from orders for military aircraft, the largest of which was announced last week and which would involve Saudi Arabia in payment of $756 million for 60 Northrup Corp. jet fighters.

Mideast Markets, a publication affiliated with the Chase Manhattan Bank, quotes Amer Sherif, an important Arab air official, as saying Arab airlines will more than double capacity in the next five years at a cost of $2.5 billion.

Among the transactions agreed upon during the past year, according to Mideast Markets, are these:

—Two Boeing 747SP and three advanced 727-200 jetliners, by Syrian Arab Airlines at a cost of $100 million.

—Two extended-range L1011 TriStar jets for Gulf Air, the carrier representing Bahrain, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates and Oman, to be delivered by Lockheed Aircraft Corp. Additional sales are possible under the contract.

—Four Lockheed L1011 wide-body transports by the Saudi Arabian airline, plus two Boeing 707-320 long-range convertible cargo-passenger transports.

—A letter of intent by Egyptian to buy six DC9 series 50 twin-jet transports valued at $45 million from McDonnell Douglas Corp.
